Attorney General appeals STB decision

More opposition for New England Transrail's proposed waste transfer facility

By STEPHEN BJORK

BOSTON - Massachusetts Attorney General Martha Coakley has stepped into the ring for the fight against federal preemption for New England Transrail (NET).

New England Transrail (NET) has proposed a waste transfer facility for construction on the contaminated property at 51 Eames Street in South Wilmington, and has applied for federal preemption from the Surface Transportation Board (STB). Such preemption would allow NET to snub local and state health and public safety regulations relating to waste processing. Such STB preemption, however, is available only to rail carriers. The Town of Wilmington and its allies argued that NET is not a true rail carrier, and that it is a waste processing operation attempting to gain status as a rail carrier simply to circumvent local and state safeguards.

Coakley's Office filed an appeal on Monday with the United States Appeals Court for the First Circuit, challenging the STB's July 2007 decision in the NET matter, which ruled that a federal law, the Interstate Commerce Commission Termination Act of 1996 (ICTTA), preempts state and local regulation of solid waste management.

"Regulation of solid waste management and disposal is traditionally a state function and is the primary responsibility of states," said Attorney General Coakley. "NET should not

Town Counsel contract drafted

Selectman unanimous in fixed-fee contract

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - The ongoing contract negotiations between the Board of Selectmen and Wilmington Town Counsel Paul DeRensis was to be put off until the Board's September 24th meeting, but that didn't stop the Board from drafting a fixed-fee contract. The Board unanimously agreed to present DeRensis with an offer of $250,000 as compensation for legal services performed in fiscal year 2008 (FY08).

Though DeRensis has enjoyed unanimous reappointment in the past, this marks the first year since 2003 that the entire Board has been on the same page in regard to remuneration for his services.

Negotiations between the two parties have resulted in fire-works in recent years, ever since DeRensis first insisted halfway through his FY03 contract that the town depart from its long held practice of paying a fixed yearly fee for legal services.

This past Monday, Chairman Michael Newhouse was advising his fellow selectmen that DeRensis would appear before them to take the matter up at their September 24th meeting. Selectman Raymond Lepore, however, had worked up a proposal that he had hoped to run by the Board.

Lepore suggested that, according to his extensive research of past billings, a fixed-fee contract of $250,00 per year would be fair to both parties. The contract, Lepore suggested, should contain a clause enabling either side to come back to the table if, in the course of the year, they find it

Blaze claimed two 80 years ago

Wilmington firefighters Wilbur Sheldon and Russell Pratt remembered

By JULIE FENNEL

WILMINGTON - Last week the Wilmington Memorial Public Safety Building was draped in black to mourn the tragic loss of two West Roxbury firefighters. The flags flew at half mast just as they did eighty years ago this week when two Wilmington volunteer firefighters, Wilbur Sheldon and Russell Pratt, lost their lives battling a house fire near Silver Lake on Sunday, September 11, 1927.

Frank Goggin, of Dudley Road, lived just over the Tewksbury town line. A day earlier, Goggin had been burning trash in his basement, and it is believed that smoldering embers in the base of the heater ignited and caused the eventual destruction of the home.

Goggin awoke from the blaze in the early morning hours and desperately tried to find an escape route for his family. The stairs were overcome with fire.

Goggin and his wife, along with their two-and-half-year-old son Robert, were forced to jump from a window and run to a neighbor's house for help.

Firefighters Sheldon, age 28, and Pratt, age 44, responded to the call for help. When the men arrived along with other firefighters, they found the home fully engulfed in flames.

Firefighters aimed three hose lines into the basement. Sheldon and Pratt stood at the

The Memorial was unveiled this past Tuesday evening. All in a day's work for O'Brien

Local man appointed National Sergeant at Arms for VFW

By CHARITY B. LEGVOLD

WILMINGTON - When Wilmington resident Bryan O'Brien told the Crier about meeting President Bush, presidential contenders Clinton, Obama, McCain and Thompson, the Dallas Cowboy cheerleaders, newsman Tim Russert and an assortment of actors, musicians and politicians, it was not a boastful tale of 'who's who'; instead he was describing the fascinating duties of his newly appointed position as National Sergeant at Arms for the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW).

O'Brien received notice of his appointment as National Sergeant at Arms of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States with its 2.3 million members and auxiliary early in April of 2007. He was appointed at the National Council of Administration meeting on April 23, 2007 and was sworn in during the August National Convention. He will serve under new Commander-in-Chief George Lisicki for 2007-

2008. O'Brien is no stranger to the National Sergeant at Arms position. Each National Sergeant at Arms has seven National Assistant Sergeant at Arms who serve under him. These Assistants represent conferences across the United States. O'Brien served as one of the National Assistant

Marcou attends VMA Awards

Local singer's trip sponsored by Kiss108

By MARCY RAGUCCI

WILMINGTON - Renee Marcou, a singer, songwriter and Wilmington resident, was selected to attend the MTV Video Music Awards 2007 held at the Palms Casino Resort in Las Vegas on Sunday, September 9th. Marcou's trip was sponsored by local radio station Kiss 108 FM. She was accompanied by her publicist, Natalie King, on her trip to Las Vegas for the live show.

Marcou was only notified a week before the VMA ceremony that she would be attending, so she was in a whirlwind of activity trying to prepare for the star-studded event. One of her biggest thrills was finding the perfect dress for her fairy-tale evening and she found a perfectly stunning gown at Saks Fifth Avenue in Boston designed by noted designer, BCBG Max Azria.

"I am truly honored to be at the VMA's this year," Marcou said. "I remember hosting a party during the 2006 awards just last year and thinking to myself that I want to be there in 2007. It is so surreal that my thoughts have actually become true."

"I am very excited to be in this situation but it all seems so unreal. However, being here gives me even more drive to try to get where I want to be. I even got to walk the red carpet at Maxim at the Mandalay Bay where I was photographed. Some photographs should appear on the MTV web site soon," said Marcou.

In addition to meeting stars and recording artists, Marcou encountered some paparazzi, too.

Strings Attached plans Festival

Tickets on sale now

By JULIE FENNEL

The Strings Attached Parent Support Group (SAPS) will be holding its second annual Italian Festival on Friday, September 28th from 7:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Wilmington. The fundraiser offers an adult-oriented evening of delicious food, dancing and raffles.

To reach us

Call: 978-658-2346

Tickets are $25 each and can be requested via email at strings-dinner@yahoo.com.

Strings Attached, the Wilmington Public School Strings Orchestra, was formed in 1987 by Ward Dilmore. The group currently has over 400 students in grades four through twelve who play the violin, viola or cello. The group performs and competes at various events throughout the year. Fundraising supports scholarships, trips, instruments, music and multiple events such as The Arch of Bows ceremony which welcomes the youngest members into the Strings Family.

"Over 220 people attended last year's festival. Matt DePasquale of Rocco's Restaurant has been instrumental in planning and running both last year's and this year's festivals," said SAPS member Lynne Wagstaff. "Without the generosity of his time, resources, and wonderful food, these events wouldn't be possible. In addition, the Knights of Columbus have graciously donated the hall."

This year's guests will dance the night away to the sounds of a DJ while being treated to Rocco's scrumptious Italian buffet of Stuffed Shells, Chicken Broccoli and Ziti, Eggplant, Sausage Peppers and Onions, Meatballs, Ziti, Antipasto and special dessert items. Though the event is for adults only, Strings Attached seniors will be assisting in the kitchen, serving food, and performing for guests.

"Strings Attached isn't only about music. Mr. Dilmore instills a sense of teamwork, fairness and camaraderie in his students as well as community spirit," explained Wagstaff. "Strings has donated school signs for the Middle School and High School lawns, food to the local Food Pantry, toys for the Toys for Tots program and donations to the Shriner's Burns Center, as well as performing at and donating clothing to Boston homeless shelters."

Wagstaff noted, "Of course, none of this would be possible without the generosity and support of the local businesses."

GIFT SPLITTING

One individual can gift another — or many others — as much as $12,000 a year without incurring gift taxes. And a couple together can give $24,000 to each.

If the spouses agree on giving such a gift but only one has assets, it's easy for that person to place the assets into a joint account or give them to the other spouse (tax-free between citizen-spouses), so they can give a joint gift.

The other option, gift splitting, requires the spouse with assets to give the double gift—$24,000 per donee, say—and for the other to consent to it. In this case, a gift tax return must be filed (though no taxes are due) and both must consent to a 50-50 split. Both spouses must be U.S. citizens and neither can remarry during the year. Also, if they split one gift, they must split all gifts to any recipient. For larger gifts, different rules apply but gift splitting still works.

Letters to the editor

Community comes through!

Dear Editor

Two weeks ago the Town Crier ran a story about the current needs of our food pantry and the increased demand on those needs. We volunteers at the pantry could not be prouder of the town of Wilmington. Individual families as well as organizations, too numerous to mention, responded with an overwhelming show of generosity and caring. Our shelves are well on the way to where they need to be as we help our neighbors and start to think about Thanksgiving. Thank you Wilmington as we show that in our town, People Do Help People.

Bob DiPalma

Thank-you, Tewksbury Police

(editor's note: the following is a letter sent to Tewksbury Police Chief Alfred Donovan. It is being published here at the request of the author.)

Dear Chief Donovan,
This is a note of personal gratitude to the members of The Tewksbury Police Department who have taken the time and care to assist me with difficult situations over the summer, mostly due to—and not limited to—The Vale Street Resurfacing Project.

There have been many upsetting incidents impacting both me and my property making this what I fondly refer to as "The Summer From Hell!"

Your officers have all responded professionally and respectfully, and I do so appreciate the time, care, and courtesy shown to me as a resident of this town. To list a few by name: Officer Brian Warren, Officer Paul Doherty, Jr., Officer Jim Bievener, Officer(?) Casey, Sgt. Tom Cooke, Sgt. Scott Gaynor, Lt. Chip McKenna, the very professional and competent Dispatchers—especially, the forever steady, always reliable, unnerved and unrattled KAREN! God Bless her! To add to the list the many Detail Officers, including one who turned out to be your lovely daughter! I'm sure I have omitted others whose names I do not know, but not to diminish their contributions, by any means. In a day when an Officer's job gets tougher and tougher, I consider us fortunate to have such a respectable and pleasant Police Force.

Thank you all!
Jane Melcher
Tewksbury

Could have had a better summer without all the aggravation

(editor's note: the following is a letter to Tewksbury's Town Manager and a number of Tewksbury employees and officials. It is being published here at the request of the author.)

The Hills Fence Company arrived at my house today for the third time, unannounced and uninvited to repair the driveway gate on my property.

The first time they showed up was, apparently, at 7:00 in the morning a couple of weeks ago to discuss a plan to repair my driveway gate, relevant to the Vale Street Resurfacing Project. I was not informed of the meeting, nor invited, and had no idea people were on my private property discussing my personal fence. I was never consulted about the plans for rectifying my driveway gate situation, though I am the Homeowner.

The second time they showed up, unannounced, I did not discover that they were working on my property (trespassing) taking my fence apart (destruction of personal property) until I saw a stranger in my yard at the back of my house, beneath my kitchen window, using my water! (He was rinsing out a bucket he had used to mix cement in and dumped the remaining cement on my grass, where he left it to harden!)

On that day—the first day of work—when I went out to the driveway to examine what he had done, I told him explicitly to LEAVE my old posts (with my red reflectors on them) and my other parts, to leave my property, and to not show up the next day (as he planned) to complete any work.

Today, when they showed up again to resume the work, again without an appointment, and against my order given to Ernie Lightfoot, and the two men from Hills Fence Company while standing there in my yard (today) to not perform the work, and in defiance of my telling them to leave my private property, they continued the work anyway, per order of Mr. Toma Duhani, who after arriving personally, told me to "sue him" when I reminded him, yet again, that I gave a direct order to not touch my personal property and to leave my yard. Also, my two fence posts with red reflectors and bracket & bolt—those which I had given instructions to leave—were taken (theft of personal property), along with some rocks that they had no business touching.

The (unauthorized) work that was done on my driveway gate today was not completed correctly. Besides the fact that the two fence posts were cut off and left at two different heights (when they should be matching), there needs to be a "barrel" type piece of hardware inserted into the ground (tar apron) for the fence to lock properly. Otherwise, without the hardware, the "stem" type piece that goes down into the ground to keep the gates closed will not hold, but will loosen and destroy the tar into which it was set by wind, or by regular use. Also, my gates now do not fold back in the "open" position the way they used to and should still. This is a problem, as well.

My two phone numbers have been on every piece of E-mail I have sent to a collection of relevant parties regarding this situation. Ernie Lightfoot and I have communicated a few times, back and forth via phone and E-mail, however, by no means was I notified of their intent to do work on my property today. There is absolutely no excuse for these people inviting themselves to do unauthorized work on my private property without so much as a phone call. This was totally inconvenient, rude, unprofessional, and thoroughly disrespectful of me, The Resident & Homeowner.

Another note: After I repeatedly told Mr. Lightfoot, the two Hills Fence employees, and Mr. Duhani that I could not deal with this situation at the moment, that I need to leave immediately for an important Doctor's appointment in Nashua, they ignored my wishes completely—per order of Mr. Duhani—kept me there arguing, totally disrespecting my schedule needs, my serious health concerns, causing further problems for me and my schedule.

Upon returning from my medical appointment in New Hampshire, I called The Hills Fence Company and spoke with

Betsy's Best Bets

Hopped Up On Hopper

All nature is but art. (Pope)

For those of us who love the ocean, coastal communities have an allure that is irresistible. At the top of my list, if I won the lottery, would be owning waterfront property along the North Shore. Even though these seaside towns and villages attract sightseers by the hoards, most still maintain a non-commercial feeling, probably because the shops and restaurants and businesses are small and family-run for the most part.

For me, Gloucester gives the strongest impression of working class roots - it's the least touristy area all the way from the coast of Maine and New Hampshire to the Cape. Gloucester is a no-nonsense, pensive kind of place. Surely this atmosphere comes from its long fishing history, which dates back to 1606, being the oldest seaport in America. Over the centuries thousands of fishermen have lost their lives earning a living out at sea. Apparitions hang heavy in the foggy air and reflections off the water of those spirits are a constant reminder of the danger the "call of the sea" holds.

Gloucester's downtown has its own distinctive look. Main Street is narrow and curvy with big shady tree branches overhanging, giving it a cool, unhurried charm in summer. Lots of inviting stores, shops and antique and art galleries and restaurants line the length of Main Street and the side streets. Several larger seafood restaurants right along the water are only a walking block away.

What brought me back to Gloucester this summer was all the recent press about the famous twentieth century artist Edward Hopper. His love of Gloucester's "look" was enough to stir my interest. I wanted to revisit the landscape, the architecture, the mood and melancholy of one of Hopper's favorite places to paint. I also planned to attend the Museum of Fine Arts Edward Hopper exhibit that ran through August but never made it, the reason being that quite by chance or coincidence (but I don't believe in coincidence) I stopped at a sidewalk book sale in Wakefield one afternoon and found a new, 15x12 inch book of seventy-five exquisite Edward Hopper pictures - for one dollar! All of a sudden a trip to the MFA didn't seem all that necessary. And I've driven past the Edward Hopper house in South Truro many times - the one that overlooks the Cape Cod Bay, the place called "Hopper landscape" - the one that has been in the news of late.

So you may have guessed that I'm mad about Edward Hopper's work. I'm pulled inside of every painting, I'm moved and sparked and spooked and saddened. I'm the woman in "Cape Cod Morning" and I'm the woman in "Nighthawks" and I'm the woman in "Hotel Lobby." "House by the Railroad" haunts me and "Automat" bothers me and "Office at Night" makes me stop and stare and think. Not being an art critic, I can only say how Hopper affects me. All of his paintings are sparse and barren, unfurnished and wanting, with no distractions from the message that we are all single, solitary and alone inside our selves. The fact that Edward Hopper has been so deservedly revered says something about the enticement to that truth.

It's easy to see why Edward Hopper was so captivated by the City of Gloucester, its harbor, its houses, its haunts and hangouts. He was not alone. Other American artists, less known but considered great, painted in Gloucester. The Rocky Neck Art Colony in East Gloucester is the oldest continuously operating art colony in America.

Beyond the culture and art, the architecture and ambience of downtown, Gloucester has two of the most beautiful beaches on earth - Good Harbor and Wingaersheek. If you haven't been to Wingaersheek Beach at low tide, start checking the tides daily (weather page in the Globe or the Farmer's Almanac) and plan to go. You will be awe-struck at the pure natural wonder of this spot. Looking out across the bay and further out into the Atlantic, beachgoers, who look like figurines, are about a mile out "wading" in ankle deep water. At the lowest point of low tide the sandbar looks like a pilgrimage of "parishioners" heading out onto a slender far-reaching slice of heaven on earth.

There's also Stage Fort Park, the historical site of Gloucester's first settlers in 1623. The Park has an informational center, two small beaches, a playground and restaurant. SFP is ideal for families, lots of big rocks to climb on and pools in-between the rocks. Kids love this place.

Gloucester is not like all the rest. It has its own reserved sense of self forged by its fateful fishing history. Gloucester's strength comes from that fact - a tight-knit and loyal community of lives irreversibly linked, a place of mournful blues and breathless beauty held together by a fishing net.

The Family Therapist

Are you choosing the right partner?

Choosing a husband or wife could be the most important choice of your life. Your life will be affected in every shape and form. You no longer have the freedom to be only for yourself in thought or action. If fortunate, your thoughts and actions will be encouraged and enhanced by your partner. Making a choice is difficult when blinded by strong sexual attraction and confusing emotions. When in love, your partner's negative actions are easily accepted as the right thing. When in love or infatuated, you need to believe your partner's actions are proper. These same actions without the love could be unacceptable. This happens often when infatuation declines and clouds clear. Reality is now ready to set in. Your partner no longer seems the same because of the missing ingredient (infatuation).

A couple's chance of success is greater if their interest and temperament are the same. Beliefs, interests, and ideas you can share nourish the relationship. Intimate sexual encounters keep the fire of closeness burning. Sharing interests will enhance togetherness and joy. Many of today's young people never get to know their partners. Sexual feeling overwhelms them before they have a chance to know their partner as a human being. The more unfortunate have a child before knowing their partner. The normal steps of growing up have been turned upside-down. Some, unfortunately, start off with a child, the ultimate of love, and then try to go back to where it should have started.

It becomes very difficult to get to know your lover while adjusting to and caring for an infant. A new relationship needs one-to-one intimate conversations. Clearing the air to find the truth about a partner can be complex. Too often, people try to act like a person they really are not. Many young people give the wrong impression for the sake of being cool. They sexually overdrive, their actions are provocative, and their talk is crude. Many young women give the impression of being cheap, while they are really good kids. In reality, most are looking for that one loving relationship. Their actions, however, show otherwise. These actions attract partners who are wild and crude. Taking on roles that misrepresent one's real personality usually leads to excessive drinking, drugs, and many sexual partners. If this is what you are seeking, continue.

For those who want a more serious and meaningful relationship, act the part. Try not to lose your true self to satisfy those that won't care about your true self. Allow people to know who you really are and what you expect of a relationship. You will find it easier to be the true you than any manufactured rolls. We should stop trying to be what we are not. How will your partner ever know you?

When you find that special person, will you dare share your inner most feelings? Your lover should know your needs and thoughts so that you may be accepted completely. True security comes when he/she knows the real you.

The tattoos, rings, and torn clothes can only camouflage the outer person. Appreciate and work on what you are. Give yourself enough time to be found by the right one before trying to be someone else.

Let's Hear it!! Your Two Cents...

I am also a resident in the triple stop sign area of Shady Lane Drive and Pinewood. The issue is NOT that these signs are a waste of time and energy, rather, that they indicate how many motorists completely disregard driving laws. Under the rule of law, a stop sign means STOP, right? Seems simple enough.

I'm sure our WPD has more pressing issues than to "stake out" that area, but I know I could fill a page with the license plate numbers of drivers completely running the signs...they don't even yield! Perhaps if residents in the area started calling in these moving violations, the police department might indeed be sending some expensive tickets to remind folks. Heaven forbid it takes the injury of a neighborhood child to call attention to this matter.

Wilmington

Thanks again to the town for building that fishing pier at Silver Lake. I've been enjoying it the last couple of summers.

Such a shame about the trash situation there though. One would think that fishermen would be the least likely to trash up a pier or the lake itself, but apparently, that's not the case. One can see the trash barrel, which the town had placed there, now residing at the bottom of the lake. It's been there for many months and has yet to be retrieved or replaced, so the trash piles up on the pier again until the wind blows it into the lake.

Could the town PLEASE put another barrel there? Chain it to the rail if you have to in order to prevent the vandals from throwing it in again, but please replace it. Thanks much.

Why I Am Proud To Be An American

America is a country of greatness. It is a country of freedom and power. It is the country that I live in. I have lived in America for eleven years and am just beginning to see all the benefits of being an American citizen. Americans have the right to say what they think, even when what they are saying isn't nice or popular.

We are a united nation. We are strong, smart, and considerate. Every year, we take in thousands of people from other countries, helping to change their lives dramatically. America is a country that cares not only for itself, but for others as well. In America we have the right to vote for a leader of our choice. We are a fair, democratic country.

Sometimes I don't think that American citizens appreciate all that we have. Like food, fresh water, clothes, homes to live in, and schools to name just a few things. We also have an endless list of non-essential items such as TVs, computers, video games, junk food and such that we take for granted. We have vaccines and are virtually free of diseases that killed countless people less than a century ago.

I am proud to be a citizen of the most powerful, compassionate country in the world. I am proud to be free. But most of all, I am proud to be an American.

Back to school tips for families with dogs

Separation Anxiety

With parents at work and no kids to play with during the day, dogs left alone can become stressed - which often results in destructive behaviors and endless barking. These tips can help reduce the initial stress of separation.

Start early: At least a week before the kids go back to school, start getting your dog used to being alone. Begin by separating your dog from the kids and the rest of the family.

Ignore him: Dogs can be the center of attention when kids are home. You need to change this scenario before they return to school so that your family dog can adjust more quickly. Do this by ignoring your dog for increasing amounts of time about a week before school.

When you leave: As your family leaves your home, don't pamper your dog by saying in a sweet voice something like, "Don't worry - we'll be home soon." Dogs are pack animals, and as such they expect their leaders to be strong when they leave the pack. It is best to totally ignore your dog for about 10 minutes before you leave, and as you leave the house, simply make a low "growl" with your voice. While this might sound peculiar, your dog will actually be relaxed by your voice. In the wild, the pack leader growls when leaving the pack to indicate he will return soon and not to misbehave.

Shelter

Dogs need their own home. If your dog doesn't have a place of his own, create one for him.

Crate: Most dogs love crates. Dogs are descendants of animals that live in dens, and a crate has the same characteristics of a den. If your dog hasn't been crate trained, don't start training him the day the kids leave for school. That's too late and can actually add to his stress. Rather, start training him in advance of the back-to-school transition.

Doghouse: If your dog will be kept outside while you are gone, make certain he has shelter. Dogs are much more relaxed when they are covered and in a familiar surrounding. Provide him a blanket or another soft, inviting surface.

Laundry room: If your dog will be inside all day and you are concerned about him toileting in the house, enclose him in an area that is rather small (this inhibits the tendency to toilet).

Boredom

Dogs sleep a great deal during the day. But when they wake up, they want something to do. It doesn't take much to entertain a dog - even when you're not at home.

Scatter food: Dogs are natural foragers that love to look for food on the ground. Before you and your kids leave the house, distribute dry food (or other treats) over a wide area in your backyard. You might even try hiding some treats. Also consider scattering vegetables, such as baby carrots.

Build a sandbox: Dogs love to dig, so rather than trying to eliminate this natural instinct, control where they dig by building them their own special place. Build a sandbox and teach your dog that it belongs to him. Bury his favorite toy in the digging pit and when he digs it up, praise him lavishly. Very quickly he will learn where to dig - and, more importantly, where not to dig.

Toys: Dogs love toys. But they quickly get bored with them, or destroy them. First, buy quality toys that your dog will always love. For example, the Buster Cube and KONG when filled with treats are toys your dog will always love - and they are virtually indestructible. Second, rotate the toys. Use two boxes for dog toys and rotate them every few days so the dog can look forward to new toys when you leave.

Unusual Behavior

When dogs are stressed, they can sometimes exhibit unusual behaviors - such as jumping or even biting. It is fairly common for young children to come home from school and be "attacked" by the family dog. Usually the dog means no harm. After being left alone all day, he has pent-up energy - and when he sees the kids, his excitement might cause him to overreact.

Train the kids: Parents need to train their kids to avoid immediately entering the dog's area as soon as they get home. Kids need to ignore the pet for 5-10 minutes to allow him to settle down. With young children, it is always best to have a parent there to reduce the chance of a problem.

Train your dog: It is amazing how quickly dogs learn what is acceptable and what is not. Dogs have a language of their own and once we understand it, we can easily control them by "speaking their language."

The Town Crier remembers Paul Sullivan

By Larz F. Neilson

One of the (few) benefits of old age is outliving everyone who could remember all the outrageous things done in one's youth. It's only a matter of perception that anoints a head of snowy white hair (or lack thereof) with a mantle of wisdom and innocence.

And thus Paul Sullivan was robbed. He died too young - people still remember Paul as a "fun guy," holding court at the local Chinese restaurant, throwing chicken bones at the bartender. Paul loved being a "townie" and rejected the polish of a professional mantle.

Paul grew up in politics and the family real estate business. Three years out of Austin Prep, he ran for state representative, seeking a seat once occupied by his father. He lost that race to Jim Miceli, but by the time he was 25, Paul was on the Board of Selectmen.

He was part of a controlling dynasty in Tewksbury. His father was a local attorney, real estate developer, selectman and state rep. One uncle was the chief of police. Another was the superintendent of the Dept. of Public Works. And yet another uncle was the athletic director.

He made an unsuccessful run for county commissioner. About 1988, he began doing a show on local cable television, and then a radio show on WLLH in Lowell.

In 1990, when Kevin Sowyrda ran against Rep. Jim Miceli, he stepped aside from his political column in the Town Crier. Sowyrda recommended Paul Sullivan as a replacement.

Sullivan came in with no resume. Why did he want to do a column? He had money and could have just coasted through life. But he wanted a career and an identity. He knew and loved politics and wanted to be a "player".

On May 9, 1990, Sullivan took over Sowyrda's "Frankly Speaking" column. His first submission needed a chain saw and a gallon muckilage to make it presentable. Sullivan was glib verbally, but he needed help when it came to expressing himself on paper.

But the finished product was funny. He knew the ins and outs of the local political scene and he would take pot shots at his foes.

His first column began:

"Well, here I sit in the palatial corporate offices of the Town Crier newspaper. My new office is the former workplace of Kevin Sowyrda, former "Frankly Speaking" columnist. "After Kevin announced his candidacy for state representative, management here felt it would not be proper to have anyone writing a column who was promoting a political agenda."

"So the Neilsons went on a nationwide search to find a non-political figure . . . and they came up with me. Many people have asked why I am writing a column for the Crier. Well, frankly speaking (catchy phrase) . . . it's the money. Many of you, including Bill Conlon and Arlene Surprenant, are asking themselves, "How much money?" Well, the answer is $100,000 per column, a mere fraction of what these words of wisdom are worth."

He then proceeded to "clean out" Kevin's desk, applying considerable license. A writer can get away with a lot, poking fun at a pol. They're almost libel-proof.

Paul alternated between Tewksbury and Wilmington stories, and his sting was sharp. Every now and then, he'd throw a change-up. When the Tewksbury School Committee voted to set the distance limit for bus stop at three-quarters of a mile, he wrote about his having to pick up his two children at the bus stop, .7 mi. away. And then he praised the school committee for putting the town's precious resources into the classroom, where they belonged, and not spending them on school bus routes.

When the Ethics Commission issued him a fine, he wrote:

"Well, the Massachusetts State Ethics Commission has brought disgrace upon itself again. The Ethics Commission, or should I say the Pathetic Commission, has so little regard for the basic rules of decency and fairness, it has again tried to justify its existence by tormenting a local official."

Now, before I go any further, let me say that I, too, was a victim of this group of bureaucratic thugs. I was fined $250 for an appearance of conflict of interest in 1987. What bothered me really was the fact that these clowns thought so little of me that they only fined me $250."

That column then went on to defend a local firefighter who had been fined by the commission, which action was the true point of his rant.

Paul continued the Frankly Speaking column for six months. When Sowyrda lost the state rep race, he returned to Former Massachusetts governor, and current Presidential candidate, Mitt Romney made a donation to Wilmington's Local Heroes. Local Heroes founder Lou Cimaglia was invited to meet the candidate on Tuesday afternoon. Romney rolled up his sleeves and helped load boxes of items into Cimaglia's truck. All of the items will go into CARE packages to be sent to the troops engaged in the War on Terror. To date, Local Heroes has sent more than 4,400 packages to our brave servicemen and women.

Pinwheels for Peace

In today's world, peace needs to become more than just a word. On September 21, 2007, the students at John F. Ryan School of Tewksbury, Massachusetts plan to take part in an International art and literacy project, Pinwheels for Peace by "planting" pinwheels with messages of peace in the Ryan School courtyard.

Pinwheels for Peace is an art installation project started in 2005 by two Art teachers, Ann Ayers and Ellen McMillan, of Coconut Creek, Florida, as a way for students to express their feelings about what's going on in the world and in their lives. In 2005, groups in over 1,325 locations throughout the world were spinning pinwheels on September 21st - there were approximately 100,000 pinwheels spinning throughout the world. Last year, 2006, over 1 million pinwheels were spinning in over 2,350 locations, including the United States, Europe, Asia, Australia, Canada, the Middle East, Africa and South America. Locally, Mrs. Diane Slezak, Art Teacher at the Ryan School will be coordinating the Pinwheels for Peace project this year.

This project is non-political - peace doesn't necessarily have to be associated with the conlict of war, it can be related to violence/intolerance in our daily lives, to peace of mind. To each of us, peace can take on a different meaning, but, in the end, it all comes down to a simple definition: "a state of calm and serenity, with no anxiety, the absence of violence, freedom from conflict or disagreement among people or groups of people."

Students will create pinwheels, pinwheels of all shapes and sizes - as part of the creation process, the students will write their thoughts about "war and peace / tolerance/ living in harmony with others" on one side. On the other side, they will draw, paint, collage, etc. to visually express their feelings. The students will assemble these pinwheels and on International Day of Peace they will "plant" their pinwheels in the Courtyard of the Ryan School as a public statement and art exhibit/installation.

On September 21, 2007, keep a lookout for the pinwheels - the spinning of the pinwheels in the wind will spread thoughts and feelings about peace throughout the country and the world!

For more information, go to <http://www.pinwheelsforpeace.com> or contact Mrs. Diane Slezak at 978-640-7880 ext. 7132.

Shawsheen Tech welcomes new staff

Seventeen new hires bring wealth of experience and expertise

BILLERICA - Seventeen new hires have joined the teaching/support/administrative staff in a variety of capacities at Shawsheen Valley Technical High School in Billerica.

Included among the talented group are five graduates of the regional vocational-technical school serving the communities of Billerica, Bedford, Burlington, Tewksbury and Wilmington.

For Cosmetology instructor Sandy Bukoimski, it is a return home for the Billerica native and Shawsheen Tech alum.

"Being a graduate of the Shawsheen Tech Cosmetology program, I know how much the program has to offer," said Bukoimski, who has 22 years of experience as a hairstylist. "I am thrilled to be part of the program."

Kevin St. Peter, another

Shawsheen Tech grad, returns to the HVAC program. With more than 12 years of experience as an HVAC technician and project manager in commercial industry as well as eight years in the U.S. Army, St. Peter's parents still live two blocks from Shawsheen Tech.

Deborah Vachon is a third alum returning to Shawsheen Tech. A Wilmington native, Vachon will join the Health Services and Technology program as an Aide - the program she graduated from as a student. Her experience includes serving as a Staff Development Coordinator for long-term care facilities educating staff, patients and families on various topics and procedures.

"The education I received at Shawsheen Tech played a huge role in my success in nursing school and in my career," said Vachon.

Greg Bendel and Karyn Ruggiero round out the group of former Shawsheen Tech students returning to their alma mater. Both will serve as Paraprofessionals/Aides. Bendel, also an assistant boys basketball coach at Shawsheen and former National SkillsUSA Champion, will work with students in the Commercial Art and Design program, while Ruggiero, a volunteer girls' basketball coach at Shawsheen, will assist Title One Math students.

Also assisting the Support Services Department as an Aide will be Jillian Butler, a Merrimack College graduate with a Bachelor's degree in Sociology.

While not a graduate of Shawsheen Tech, Beverly Robinson joins the Health Services and Technology program as an instructor with a unique perspective - that of a parent. Two of Robinson's children - Kaitlin (a senior in Health) and Lyndsay (a sophomore in Business Information Services) attend Shawsheen Tech.

"My two children are having a wonderful experience at Shawsheen," said Robinson, a Tewksbury resident. "I'm glad to be part of a wonderful institution."

Also joining the Health Services and Technology staff is Karen Meister, an Arlington resident who brings more than two decades of experience as a nurse.

The Science Department welcomes two new members - Laurie Grant and Rita Dalmanieras.

Grant, a Billerica resident, comes to Shawsheen Tech with five years experience at Billerica Memorial High School. Dalmanieras is from Manchester, New Hampshire, and like Grant, holds a Bachelor's degree in Biology as well as a Master's degree.

"I'm looking forward to beginning my career at Shawsheen," said Dalmanieras. "It is a great opportunity for me to expand my growth as a teacher."

Marygrace Ferrari joins the Math Department with 19 years of teaching experience. A two-time recipient of the Gold Apple Award from the Everett School District for performance above and beyond expectations, Ferrari is eager to teach at a school she has heard so much about.

"I moved to Billerica eight years ago and have heard such amazing stories about the 'Tech,'" said Ferrari. "It has been a professional goal of mine to teach at Shawsheen Tech."

Lenny Simonelli will take over as Social Studies Department Chair for Bill Christianson who retired in June. Simonelli has nine years of teaching experience between time at four schools (Everett High, Parlin Junior High (Everett), St. Mary's Junior/Senior High and Beverly High).

Daniel Campanale brings a strong background in the food service industry and a variety of interests to the Culinary Arts program. In addition to seven years of teaching experience in Central Massachusetts, Campanale has owned three restaurants and a catering company. He is also a fourth degree black belt in Shalin Kempo Karate and has twice traveled cross county.

Harvard University and the New England Aquarium are two Massachusetts landmarks and both are among the many places new Plumbing and Heating instructor Frederick Coburn has worked during his 33-year career as a licensed plumber.

"I am very excited to meet the new students and staff at Shawsheen," said Coburn, a Saugus resident who also enjoys motorcycles.

Kerry O'Brien joins the English Department as a long-term substitute to assist with a pair of maternity leaves in the department. A competitive sailor, O'Brien is also an instructor in a sailing program.

At the administrative level, Carissa Karakaedos is the new Director of Community Services. A Peabody resident, Karakaedos previously worked for the Massachusetts Department of Education as a Supervisor for the Certificate of Occupational Proficiency. She also has ten years of teaching experience both at the high school and technical college level.

"I'm excited to be a part of a great regional vocational school," said Karakaedos. "Shawsheen Tech's strong reputation extends beyond the district into the state level."

Elizabeth Benoit rounds out the new hires. Benoit will join the staff in the Shawsheen Child Care Center.

A.J.'s Restaurant

Wilmington residents, David Erickson and Rob Bouvier, opened A.J.'s Restaurant at 162 Lowell Street in Wilmington last May and have been kept very busy greeting new customers ever since.

Prior to opening A.J.'s, Erickson owned J&A Foods in Winchester, and Bucci's Market & Catering in Everett. Erickson is a member of the National Registry of Food Safety Professionals.

Erickson named the restaurant in honor of his son, A.J., who is autistic and all the employees wear the puzzle symbol (for autism) on their shirts and hats.

Bouvier brings his culinary talents to the table and to their restaurant as a graduate of the Cambridge School of Culinary Arts and teaches recreational culinary programs there, too. He is Serve Safe Certified, too, which means he has been trained in proper food preparation and storage.

While the restaurant has minimal seating, customers file in and out at a rapid pace to pick up their orders. A.J.'s has delivery service available, too if you call 978-657-0037. They offer a full menu to choose from and a more extensive one for private catering, as well. In addition to all the delectable items on the menu, A.J.'s bakes their own rolls for sandwiches and makes a variety of specialty sandwiches and calzones, too.

"We are trying to raise money at the restaurant now for the Walk Now for Autism on October 14th. We hope to raise about $2,000 with puzzle pieces alone and lots more with what the walkers can raise. For more information on the Walk Now for Autism, you can stop by our restaurant," comments Erickson. Bouvier offers, "It's nice to be in the restaurant business but it feels great to be able to do something for autism and the community."

When 3 year-old A.J. visits the restaurant and is treated like the superstar he is, it's easy to see that compassion, caring, and commitment can be found on the menu at A.J.'s Restaurant, too.

Paul H. Sullivan

Selectman, columnist, talk show host

Former Tewksbury selectman Paul H. Sullivan died Sunday evening at All Saints Medical Center in Lowell.

A member of a prominent Tewksbury family, he had become well-known in the Boston area as the host of a leading talk-show on WBZ radio.

Sullivan served two terms on the Tewksbury Board of Selectmen, from 1982 to 1988.

In 1978, three years after graduating from Austin Prep, he ran for state representative in a race that was won by Jim Miceli. Sullivan also ran unsuccessfully for county commissioner.

He worked a late evening time slot for a few years before being picked to succeed David Brudnoy in a prime-time radio program with 200,000 listeners. In that venue, he drew calls — and praise — from many politicians.

Sullivan came down with stage IV melanoma, skin cancer, about three years ago and had undergone brain surgery four times. After the latest surgery in May, he returned to the radio for one last broadcast in late June.

He was the husband of MaryJo Griffin-Sullivan. Additionally, he is survived by five children, Ryan P., Ashley A., Kerri L., Caitlin J. Ferry and Colleen E. Ferry; his parents, Kevin and Margaret A. Mr. Sullivan was also the son-in-law of the late Warren D. Griffin.

The funeral will be held at the Immaculate Conception Church in Lowell on Thursday at 11 a.m., followed by burial in St. Mary's Cemetery in Tewksbury.

Memorial donations may be sent to the Paul Sullivan Memorial Hospice Fund, c/o Enterprise Bank, 222 Merrimack St., Lowell MA 01852.

It's Our Business

North Wilmington Citgo Service Station

Bob Doucette, Sr. has been providing quality service to gas station customers on Rte. 62, Middlesex Ave. in North Wilmington for 50 years and his son, Bob Doucette, Jr. has worked with his dad for 25 years. Doucette's wife, handles book-keeping duties for the company.

Doucette owns the North Wilmington Citgo Service Station now and offers a variety of services in addition to gasoline like state inspections for stickers, towing and road service.

Thinking back to when he first started working in 1957, Doucette recalls paying about $6,000 for a delivery of gas and now the same load costs about $40,000. "Of course, gas was less than a dollar a gallon compared to three times the price now, and you could buy a new Chevy for about $2,500 back then," says Doucette.

You can count on the Doucette family for quality auto repairs year-round and, in the winter, you can count on them to plow your driveway, too.

Doucette remembers the Blizzard of 1978 quite well. "We had 80 driveways to plow and each customer wanted assurance that we'd plow their driveways by 5:30am so they could get to work. Since it was impossible to plow all of the driveways by then, I'd tell them not to worry. If you can't get out of your driveway by 5:30, you aren't going anywhere, anyway!"

"Stop by the station at 361 Middlesex Ave. in Wilmington anytime. If you can't make it under your own power, give us a call at 978-658-9498 and we'll send a tow truck for you," Doucette.

Tewksbury Library Notes

by Jen Hinderer

What's in your name?

What's in a name? The question has been asked since Shakespeare's time, and what determines a popular name has changed dramatically since then. Favorite names in the past were Nettie and Bert, and more recently have been Madison and Joshua. Throughout history people have been named in honor of the famous, known by their occupations, or renamed themselves for personal and professional reasons.

Few things in life are invested with such importance as a name, and new parents often spend months trying to choose just the right one. Tewksbury

Public Library owns books like Baby Names Around the World, Baby Names Now, and The Penguin Classic Baby Name Book, which provide name lists by popularity, ethnicity, and meaning. Interestingly, names have a cyclical quality, and often names that were considered old-fashioned come back into style. The Social Security Administration keeps a list of the top 100 baby names, and it's possible to see which names were popular in a given year. Check the popularity of any name in the database from 1879 to the present at www.ssa.gov/OACT/baby-names.

Surnames (last names) were common in ancient China and Rome, but it would be a few more centuries before they were used regularly in Europe. They originally came into existence as a way of distinguishing exactly which of the many Williams in the town was being discussed. Surnames are derived from a variety of sources, such as an ancestor, location, description, or occupation. Therefore it's likely that your neighbor named Baker was descended from bakers, Lance Armstrong had a mighty-armed ancestor, and that Joan Rivers* had family who originally lived near a river.

Different cultures have different naming systems. Chinese surnames come before the first name (so Amy Tan would be written as Tan Amy). In Ethiopia, children receive their father's first name as their surname and are not given a middle name. Many Spanish people have two surnames, with the first one being from their father and the second from their mother. In Iceland, surnames are given but rarely used-people are listed in the phone book by their first name!

People have chosen to change their given names for a variety of reasons. Women have traditionally adopted their husband's name upon marrying, although keeping a maiden name or hyphenating is more common now. Early immigrants' names were often changed by clerks who couldn't pronounce or spell them, or deliberately by immigrants themselves to sound more Americanized. Name changes are popular for actors and celebrities to make them more memorable. Marilyn Monroe was originally Norma Jean, and Tiger Woods's actual first name is Eldrick. For a list of who's really who in Hollywood and the rest of the public arena, visit www.famous-namechanges.net.

Apparently the answer to what's in a name can be anything from a popularity contest to a clue to family history. Discover more (perhaps even the meaning of your own name) at Tewksbury Public Library.

Anytime Fitness announces campaign to raise $250,000 for local, national charities.

WILMINGTON - The owners of Anytime Fitness in Wilmington are pleased and proud to announce their participation in "Celebrating Everyday Super Heroes" - a nationwide campaign designed to raise hundreds of thousands of dollars for local and national charities.

Collectively, the Anytime Fitness clubs nationwide hope to raise $125,000 for the American Heart Association. In addition, each individual Anytime Fitness club will choose a worthy cause in its community to honor and contribute to. The Anytime Fitness Club in Wilmington will plan to donate half of the contributions received to the American Heart Association and the other half to the Local Heroes. This organization is based in Wilmington and works to support our local servicemen and servicewomen and their families. 100% of all donations received go directly to these local heroes. www.mass-local-heroes.org.

Celebrating Everyday Super Heroes

Here's how it will work: Anytime Fitness clubs are open 24-hours a day. Thus, each individual Anytime Fitness club will attempt to recruit 24 local businesses willing to nominate and sponsor one local super hero apiece. The nominees can be a valued employee, a loyal customer, a dedicated volunteer - anybody the business considers heroic for any reason. In exchange for a $100 sponsorship (half of which will be donated to the American Heart Association and half to the Local Heroes Inc.), the "heroes" will all be honored with certificates that will be posted inside Anytime Fitness on Monday, October 1st. In addition, all employees at the businesses which sponsor a hero will be offered 10-day free passes to the club, discounted enrollments to the club, discounted memberships and/or special gifts.

Two weeks later on Monday October 15, between the hours of 4:00pm-8:00pm, Anytime Fitness will host an open house - so that members of the general public can visit the club and see which of their friends and neighbors has been honored as Everyday Super Heroes. Two days prior to that on October 13th, the Anytime Fitness mascot - Capt. Running Man - will actually fly for the first time. How? Capt. Running Man (a purple-clad caped crusader) will be on board a "Zero-G" weightless flight at the Kennedy Space Center. Look for video of this historic event at www.anytimefitness.com beginning in late October.

Also, throughout the entire month of October, individual Anytime Fitness club members will be given the chance to sponsor their own Everyday Super Heroes. Whether it's a fellow family member, a neighbor, a babysitter or whomever - for $24 - members can honor anyone who they consider to be an unsung hero. Again, the heroes will be celebrated with certificates posted on the walls of Anytime Fitness - and half of the money raised will go to the American Heart Association and half to the Local Heroes Inc. For more information about the open house, about becoming an Anytime Fitness member, or about participating in the Everyday Super Hero campaign, contact Louie Piazza at wilmingtonma@anytimefitness.com or at (978) 284-6500.

Attorney General appeals STB decision

escape regulation that aims to protect public health and safety and the environment simply because it proposes to locate its solid waste operations at a railroad.

Wilmington officials were not anticipating such a move from the AG's office, but are not particularly surprised either.

"The regulatory issues at hand go far beyond the borders of Wilmington," said Wilmington Board of Selectmen Chairman Michael Newhouse. "I can understand why this is an important issue statewide."

Though Wilmington is not integrally involved in the appeal, it encourages the AG's efforts.

"It always helps when you have another party - in this case - the Commonwealth of Massachusetts - holding the same position as you," Newhouse said. "It adds another layer to your strategy."

NET petitioned the STB in December 2005 for authorization to operate as a rail carrier. As part of its project, NET intends to sort, segregate, shred, and process solid waste, before loading the waste onto railcars to be transported. The company asserted before the STB that the solid waste management component of its project should not be subject to state or local siting or permitting requirements that are otherwise applicable to all other solid waste management and processing operations.

The Attorney General's Office and MassDEP joined with Wilmington town officials in opposing NET's position before the STB, arguing that because solid waste management activities are not integrally related to rail transportation, ICCTA preemption does not apply.

The STB agreed that the shredding of construction and demolition debris is not part of rail transportation. It further ruled that the other solid waste processing activities, such as sorting, baling and wrapping, are part of rail transportation and that state regulation of those activities is preempted.

Coakley's appeal seeks review of the STB's decision to the extent that it preempted state regulation of solid waste management activities.

"New England Transrail should not be permitted to shield its waste processing operations from the reach of state environmental laws," said MassDEP Deputy Commissioner Arleen O'Donnell. "Solid waste is not a typical commodity and, if improperly managed, presents a risk to the health, safety and welfare of our citizens. States have traditionally been delegated with the responsibility for regulating solid waste facilities because states are in the best position to protect their citizens and to understand the impacts of handling solid waste."

According to a press release from Coakley's office, "Congress has recognized that states have primary responsibility for regulating processing and disposal of solid waste such as garbage, construction and demolition debris. The Commonwealth has extensive state regulations governing where solid waste facilities can be located and how they can be constructed and operated. The Attorney General has appealed the STB decision because federal preemption would prevent the Commonwealth from enforcing these regulations at the NET site."

Town Counsel contract drafted

no longer financially agreeable. Also, DeRensis would continue his practice of billing the town separately for expenses and reimbursables.

"Basically, I think that's a fair contract," Lepore said.

"Is that in the form of a motion?" Selectman Louis Cimaglia asked.

Lepore indicated that he would like for the Board to discuss the proposal first, and would then consider putting it to a motion.

The general consensus was positive.

"I prefer a fixed-fee arrangement, that's no secret," Newhouse said. "$250,000 is about as high as I'd be willing to go, based on the billing of the last four years."

According to Lepore, the town spent roughly $261,000 on legal services in FY07.

"2007 was his biggest year, and that included a lot of work on Olin and New England Transrail that shouldn't come up again in the upcoming year," Lepore said. "But even if it does, he'll have the option to come back (and re-negotiate)."

Cimaglia suggested that the town be prepared to send out a Request for Proposal in the event that DeRensis rejects the offer and new legal counsel needs to be found.

Lepore offered the motion and the vote was unanimous to present DeRensis with the offer and to prepare a Request for Proposal as a contingency.

DeRensis originally accepted the position in May 2003 with a fixed-fee arrangement of $132,800 annually for legal services. In December of 2003, halfway through the contract, the Board - consisting at the time of Selectmen Michael McCoy, Raymond Lepore, Suzanne Sullivan, Frank West, and Robert Palmer - voted 4 to 1, with Palmer as the lone dissenter, to discard the contract and to accept a revised agreement presented by DeRensis.

The new agreement included a lower retainer fee, but included hourly billing for litigation and specialized services at a rate of $160 per hour. That hourly rate increased to $165 in January of 2004 and did not stipulate any sort of monetary cap.

Contracts for 2005, 2006, and 2007 were identical, with the exception of a slight increase in the hourly billing to $175 and the addition of a 60-day escape clause allowing the Town or Town Counsel to exit the agreement with as little as 60 days notice.

Services not covered under the retainer include, but are not limited to, the work of Labor Counsel undertaking such services as collective bargaining, arbitration, grievance hearings, hearings before State Labor Relations Board or civic service or other administrative agencies relating to employee issues.

Trial Counsel, otherwise known as litigation, services also fall outside of the retainer, and includes adversarial proceedings such as trials, depositions, court motions and preparations therefore and the like. Real Estate Counsel and Bond or Tax Counsel are likewise not covered under the retainer.

Facing a Board with several new faces - Palmer retired, West and Sullivan were voted out. Newhouse, Fiore, and Cimaglia have taken those spots - and attitudes, DeRensis expressed some willingness this year to return to a fixed-fee arrangement. However, he advised against the concept.

According to DeRensis, either the town would use less legal services than what they were paying for, in which case the town would be getting a bad deal; or the town would be using more legal services than what they were paying for, in which case DeRensis' firm would be getting a bad deal.

"What's fair about billing at an hourly rate, is that it should end up being cheaper," DeRensis told the Board in August. "If you don't want the work done, you don't pay anything."

In August, DeRensis was looking to maintain the current retainer structure, which covers most day-to-day legal services, and proposed a $5 increase in the hourly billing. A $5 increase would bring the current hourly billing of $170 to $175.

nozzle of one of those lines with support from Chester Horton, age 34, and Jerome O'Leary. O'Leary had just left the line to find a lantern when the hose was raised and struck the red hot chimney which could not be seen in the dark.

Newspaper accounts from that time indicate, "With a deafening roar, the chimney crashed to earth burying the two firemen under a heap of hot debris."

The men were extricated and an urgent call went out for anyone with an automobile to respond. Ernest Pellitier and William Walsh rushed the men to Tewksbury State Hospital. Sheldon succumbed to his injuries at 9:00 a.m., followed by Pratt at 10:30 a.m. Horton survived and O'Leary escaped injury.

The local paper reported, "The entire town of Wilmington is in mourning for the two deceased heroes. The flags were flown at half-mast and the front of the fire house was draped in deep mourning. The two men were buried Tuesday with all the due reverence of heroes of their caliber."

Pratt had joined the Wilmington Fire Department in 1911 and served for a time as lieutenant. A sign painter by trade, he left behind his wife of seventeen years Mrs. Emma (Butters) Pratt and a son Albert Russell Pratt, both now deceased.

Sheldon was a 1918 graduate of Wilmington High School and worked in the Treasury Department of the Boston and Maine Railroad. He left behind his wife Mrs. Olive May (Carter) Sheldon, and a four year-old daughter Ruth Sheldon. Mrs. Sheldon was pregnant at the time and gave birth to their son Wilbur Sheldon seven months later. The Sheldons would have celebrated their five year anniversary on September 13, 1927 - the day Wilbur was laid to rest.

Daughter Ruth (Sheldon) Childs still resides in Wilmington and her brother Wilbur now resides on Cape Cod.

"I don't remember much because I was only four years old," recalled Childs. "I remember a lot of people being at our house during that time. I've held on to pictures of my father being with me when I was a child."

In 2001, the new public safety building was dedicated in memory of Pratt and Sheldon. Childs along with her brother and Pratt's family descendants were in attendance to behold the honor.

"Certainly my father would be proud of the building's dedication," said Childs. "My mother passed away in the 1970s before she could see the building dedicated to him. She would've really liked that the town did something to remember him. She never talked much about the fire. She never remarried, and for the rest of her life, I always remember her hating the date of September 13th.

As a result of the 1927 blaze, three children grew up without their father and two wives prematurely laid their husbands to rest. It's an unfortunate risk associated with the vocational calling and a risk that still very much exists today.

Wilmington Fire Department Chief Dan Stewart along with several other Wilmington firefighters attended last week's funeral services for West Roxbury firefighters Paul Cahill and Warren Payne.

During the service, International Association of Fire Fighters General President Harold A. Schaitberger recalled sentiments offered by Senator Ted Kennedy in 1999 to the families of six fallen Worcester firefighters.

"I wish that loved ones did not have to die too young," Schaitberger said. "I wish that none were lost in the high noon-time of their lives. I wish that tragedy never haunted a single soul. But, I know that sometimes life breaks your heart, and I believe we best honor those who have been lost, we best honor those brave men when we pledge that they will always be in our hearts and their example will never die."

On this eightieth anniversary of the loss of Wilbur Sheldon and Russell Pratt, and the six year anniversary of the nation's terror attacks, may we remember the selfless sacrifice of our firefighters. Our thoughts go out to Ruth, Wilbur and all the families of fallen heroes.

Sergeant at Arms, the only one from the East conference, for the last seven years. He has also served as State Sergeant at Arms (Massachusetts) for 11 of the last 12 years.

A Vietnam Era Sgt. in the Air Force from 1965-69, O'Brien's eligibility for the VFW occurred when he was sent to Korea 3 days after the USS Pueblo was seized by the North Koreans and the crew held hostage.

"Korea, with its demilitarized zone along the 32nd parallel is still an on going hot spot to this day," O'Brien said. "I was there for six and a half months from February 1968 to September 1968. I was an Intercept Control Technician trained to assist in intercepting un-friendly aircraft, to either destroy them or turn them around out of un-authorized air space, via radar control and to help flight follow friendly aircraft by giving them radar vectors to their home base or an airbase for landing."

In 1978, when O'Brien was elected as Commander of Post no. 2394 in Melrose at age 31, he was the youngest Commander ever elected to the Post. In the 76-year history of the Post, O'Brien still holds that record. He is also a Past All-State Post Commander, Past Middlesex District 18 Commander and Past Middlesex County Council Commander. In 1982 he was named National Young Veteran of the Year.

As National Sergeant at Arms, O'Brien is the man of protocol for the convention. This year there were 10,272 people in attendance at the August convention. O'Brien said he and his team often say that their job is to up to greet those people in the morning and to still be up after they put them to bed at night.

Everything between waking in the morning and bed at night is a carefully orchestrated series of events that O'Brien keeps moving like clockwork throughout each day of the conference. He and his team spend three days before each conference meeting with every possible committee to ensure that they know the logistics and security for every event. He keeps with him a schedule of the timing and seating logistics for each day of the conference.

This year's convention presented the unique challenge of appearances by current sitting President George Bush and four of the contenders for the next presidency. O'Brien said they consider the convention to be the "home" of the VFW and that these politicians are guests in their home. It is the responsibility of the National Sergeant at Arms team to be first in line to address any disturbances in the hall.

VFW members were told up front that these political guests were there to be heard and respected and that if members did not want to hear a particular speaker that they should go sight seeing or shopping instead of ruining the experience for the other members who want to hear the speeches. As usual, the events this year went off without disturbances.

On Monday of the Convention, Hillary Clinton and John McCain addressed the crowd with their differing views on Troop withdrawal in Iraq. On Tuesday, Barack Obama presented his five-point counterterrorism strategy and Fred Thompson emphasized the need for unity and winning in Iraq. President Bush addressed the group on Wednesday.

It is important to note a disclaimer from the VFW website. "The appearance of these presidential candidates is not an endorsement, implied or otherwise. The VFW does not make a presidential endorsement because it is important that they be able to work effectively with that president and administration."

The annual National Convention is but one of the many responsibilities of the National Sergeant at Arms. O'Brien already has out of state meetings scheduled in each of the next three months and has a master list of the big conferences for the next five years. Although his position has a one-year term, the Commander-in-Chief, which changes annually, decides upon each appointment. Therefore, future commanders (who are frequently identified 5 years ahead of their election) are often consulted in the appointment of a new National Sergeant at Arms because it is hoped there will be continuity in the position.

O'Brien's position as National Sergeant at Arms gives him high visibility within the organization. He travels with the Commander, assists when the VFW addresses the House and Senate in Washington D.C. in March of each year, and greets and escorts guest speakers, performers and award winners. When President Bush was at the Conference, O'Brien escorted him to the green room, escorted him to the stage to speak, stood in front of him as he spoke (see photo), and flanked one side of him as he walked the line greeting members after the speech.

At other times, the position enables him to meet and greet people from many walks of life. The VFW presents gold medals to people who have performed outstanding service for veterans or current troops, such as the traveling shows put on by the Dallas Cowboy Cheerleaders or the work of Miss America and Miss Massachusetts. Musician Tony Orlando received the Gold Medal for a patriotic show that he performs every Memorial Day for Veterans. They also present news awards. One such recipient that O'Brien greeted was newsman Tim Russert. But then there are also awards presented to people who have done something extremely courageous, like the child that saved another from dying, and other local heroes.

O'Brien reminds us that the VFW is not just a group of veterans getting together to talk about war stories and old times. Actually, there is very little of that. They are an extremely civic-minded organization that works to take care of veterans, provide scholarships for students, and many other services to local communities.

According to the VFW website, "Its mission is to 'honor the dead by helping the living' through veterans' service, community service, national security and a strong national defense." Annually, VFW members and its Auxiliary contribute more than 13 million hours of volunteerism.

Of his many years of service to the VFW, O'Brien says, "This is my chance to give back because I'm in a position to do so."

"I'm so proud that I can take part in this community," he added.

He has resided in the town of Wilmington, MA for the past 9 years and is a graduate of Somerville High School in 1965 and Newbury Jr. College for business management in Boston. O'Brien is presently employed by the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority as a Senior Controller where he has been employed for the past 20 years.

Presidential candidate Mitt Romney helped load his generous donation to Local Heroes into the back of Lou Cimaglia's truck on a rainy Tuesday afternoon. Cimaglia's Local Heroes has shipped more than 4,400 CARE packages to troops serving in harm's way since the War on Terror began.

"Natalie and I went into Rain, an ultra-modern nightclub at the Palms Casino, where a fabulous after-party was held and we finished watching the awards. We also dropped by another party that was held at the exclusive Tao Nightclub in the Venetian Resort-Hotel-Casino," said Marcou.

Marcou was really excited to meet stars like Rihanna, who walked away with two awards. "We met her while we were having lunch and we met Ludicras at the Rio Spa, Las Vegas. We even met Lil Rain in the elevator when I was on my way up to my room."

"I met some managers that I exchanged business cards with who I hope to stay in contact with, and I met some producers, too," Marcou said.

One of those producers was Shug Night, who worked with legendary rap artist Tupac Shakur.

"At the salon, I even met the girls of the Hills, an MTV show that is now beginning its third season," said Marcou.

The new group, Boys Like Girls, played at an exclusive party that Marcou attended at the Palms and she even met the group Maroon 5 when they performed at Mandalay Bay's House of Blues.

When Marcou and King were leaving the Palms to come home, they walked into a super-popular television star, Mario Lopez.

Last Thanksgiving Marcou performed at Macy's Parade at Boston City Hall with five dancers. In addition to singing, writing songs, dancing and choreographing for colleges, Marcou works with dance teams in Wilmington, Waltham and Weston.

Last May 20th, Marcou headlined the Spring Concert Fundraiser to benefit the "ChristianandSheila.org" and The Arthritis Foundation" at the Watertown Middle School.

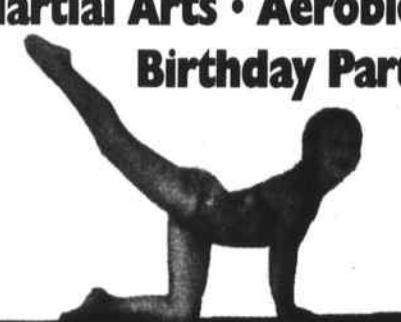

Adding to her list of performances, Marcou has been asked to sing the National Anthem for the New England Revolution Pro-Soccer Team at Gillette Stadium in Foxboro later this year. Always busy, Marcou serves as one of the spokespersons for Massachusetts Baby Safe Haven, too.

Marcou already has her own CD (titled Renee Marcou) and it is available at her shows. The music Marcou produces is a combination of pop, jazz, and soul. For more information about Renee Marcou, you can take a look and a listen at www.ReneeMarcou.com.

Taking into consideration all the time, effort, and planning Marcou is investing in her career, maybe, in the not too distant future, we'll be watching Renee walk down that very same red carpet and spring excitedly up onto the stage to accept a VMA award, too.

WHS Boys Soccer Preview

Scanlon: The most talent in past ten years

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Expectations are high for the Wilmington High boys soccer team as they enter the season, and for very good reason. The Wildcats return all but one starter off of last year's team that went 10-6-3 and advanced to the Division 2 North playoffs before being eliminated by Stoneham in the first round.

Coach Steve Scanlon has been around for many great teams in his years at Wilmington High, and he feels this team measures up with the best of them, at least in recent years. The Wildcats will be aiming for the top of the Cape Ann League this season.

"I feel like we can challenge for the league title," Scanlon said. "We only lose one starter from last year and we are really strong at some key positions. To be honest, I think we have the most talented team in Wilmington in ten years."

Right at the top of that talent for the Wildcats is senior goalie Vinny Papageorgiou, one the team's tri-captains, who earned All-Conference honors last season with eight shutouts and a 0.60 Goals Against Average.

"Vinny is probably one of the top three goalies in all of Eastern Mass," Scanlon said. "He's got good size (6-0, 180 lbs) and he is quick and agile. He's just a real good goalkeeper and he should really be the premier keeper in our league."

The Wildcats other returning All-Conference player is senior striker Mike Condell, who led the Wildcats last season in goals with 12.

"Mike is a very quick player and he has some real good skills around the net," Scanlon said. "He knows how to put the ball in the net."

Senior center midfielder Matt Figueiredo is another tri-captain that the Wildcats will be counting on this season and Scanlon knows that Figueiredo's contributions make the jobs of Condell and the other forwards much easier. Figueiredo is a returning CAL All-Star.

"He does a very good job with ball possession and he is a good ball distributor," Scanlon said. "He actually also has a good shot and can score some goals for us."

Senior sweeper J.J. Polcari is the team's third tri-captain and will be a very stabilizing defensive force for the Wildcats.

"J.J. has been with us for three years and this will be his second year as sweeper," Scanlon said. "He is a very steady defensive player. He really polices things back there for us."

As great as Papageorgiou is in net, and Polcari is at sweeper, it will also be important for him to have other quality defenders in front of him and Scanlon definitely feels like he has just that, starting with the stopper combination of Nick Farnsworth and Andrew Goosen.

"Andrew can play midfield or

The Wilmington High boys soccer team opens its season this week and will be looking to make a run at the state tournament once again. The team includes: Brendan Doherty, Jon Spurr, Nick Jannone, Nick Farnsworth, Chris Lavin, Jason Pereira, James Marra, Craig Bush, Ryan Kennedy, Kevin Flaherty, Colin Wilson, Syllan Reed, Eric Parsons, Bobby Folk, Nick Robarge, Mike Condell, Carlton Lentini, Andrew Goosen and tri-captains, Matt Figueiredo, Vinny Papageorgiou and JJ Polcari.

stopper for us, but he has been doing a great job for us back there," Scanlon said. "And Nick is a big rugged kid at 6-3 and is a good hard tackler."

Adding to the Wildcats offensive firepower will be junior striker Jason Pereira who had ten goals last season to finish second on the team.

"Jason is deceptively fast and he is very smooth with the ball. He is a great finisher," Scanlon said. "He and Condell pair up very well together and give us quite a tandem up front."

A pair of strong outside defenders for the Wildcats will be the senior tandem, of Nick Robarge and Chris Lavin.

"Nick does a real nice job for us. He is very steady and he is quick," Scanlon said. "And Chris can also play up front, but he has kind of found a home back on defense. He is a very versatile player."

Senior Brandon Doherty can play wither midfield or defender the Wildcats, while junior John Spurr will give the Wildcats quality minutes at midfielder.

"Brandon is a very aggressive kid and he wins a lot of ball just with his toughness," Scanlon said. "And Spurr was a reserve for us last year, but he has looked very good in the pre-season and will probably move into a starting role for us."

Other key returning players for the Wildcat this season will be senior midfielder Carlton Lentini, junior defender Dylan Reed and junior striker Ryan Kennedy, along with sophomore Gott Saenchandi.

Some key newcomers for the Wildcats will be senior Craig

Bush who will provide insurance for Papageorgiou in net, along with Kevin Flaherty, Bobby Folk, Nick Jannone, Jimmy Mara, Eric Parsons, and Colin Wilson.

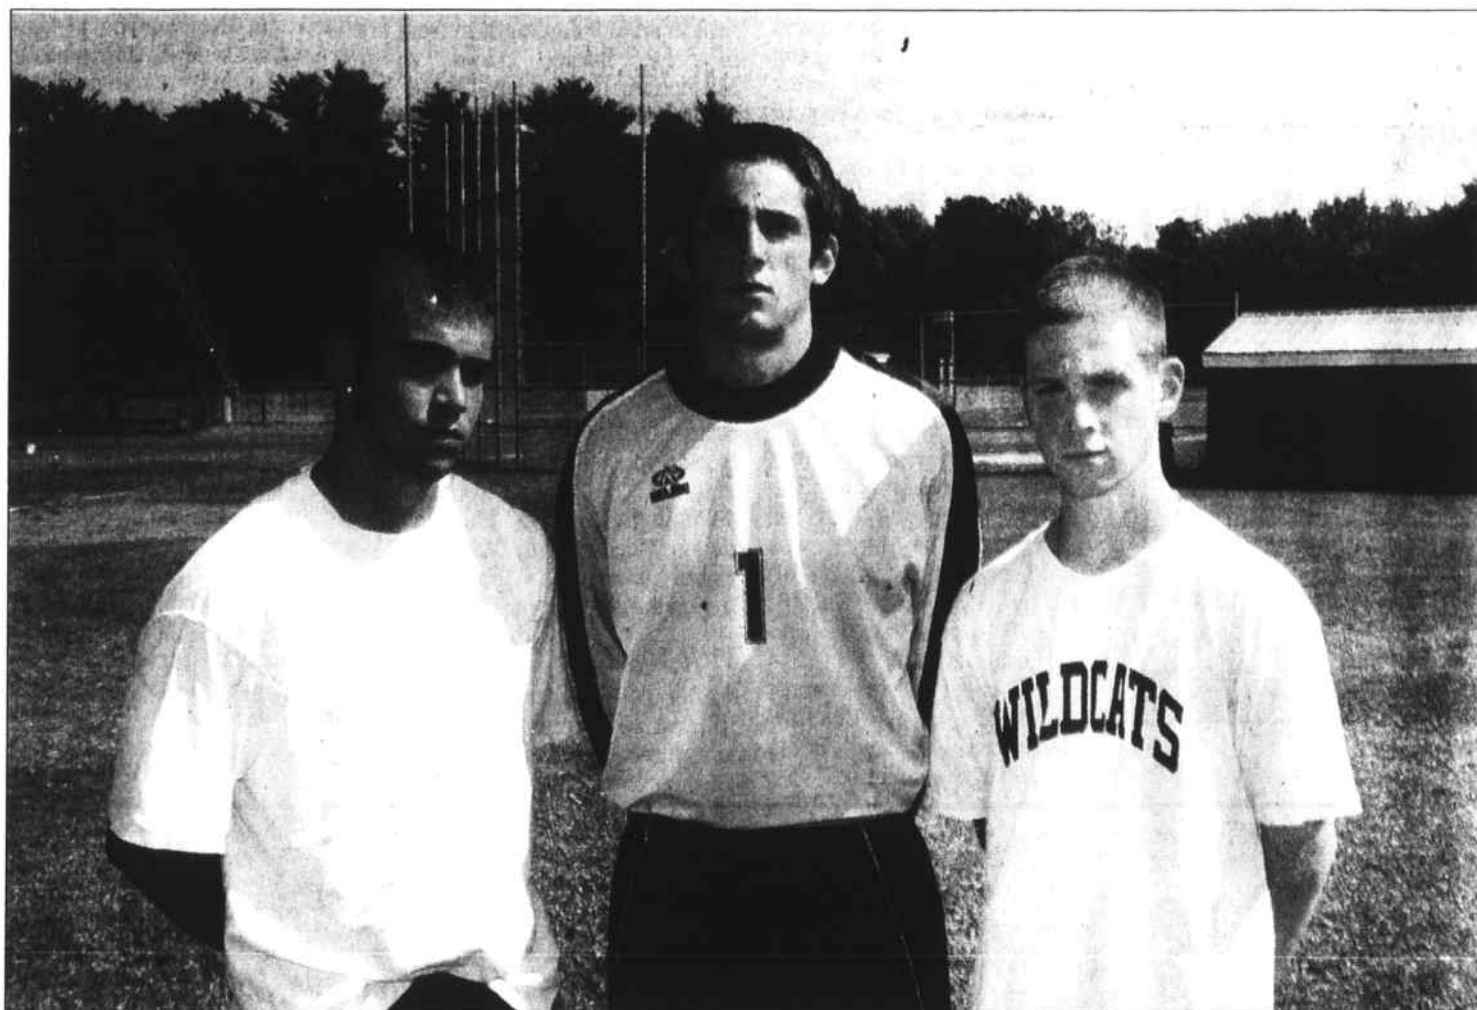

"One of our big strengths this year is that we are deeper than we have been in years," Scanlon said. "We almost have two kids at every position."

While Scanlon has set his sights on a possible league title, he is certainly not taking anything for granted, given the class of competition his team will be facing within the CAL.

"Masco is still the cream of the crop. I saw the Eastern Mass. standings and they were ranked about sixth," Scanlon said. "They are still the favorite to win the league but we are in the running along with North Andover, Lynnfield and North Reading. I feel like a sleeper team will be Hamilton-Wenham."

The Wildcats will open their season on Thursday afternoon with a tough road game against non-league rival Haverhill.

"They are supposed to be one of the top teams in the Merrimack Valley so it will be a good test for us," Scanlon said. "It's a good way for us to start the season."

Team goals come first for Mike Condell

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports correspondent

If the Wilmington High soccer team is going to have the kind of success they are hoping for this season they will need contributions from players up and won their roster, but there is no denying that one of the players they will be counting on most heavily will be senior striker Mike Condell.

Condell led the team in scoring last year with 12 goals and five assists, and while he is not necessarily going to be asked to duplicate those great numbers he will be counted on for a big offensive punch for the Wildcats.

As far as Condell is concerned, however, as long as the team reaches their goal of being one of the top, if not he top team in the CAL, he does not care how many goals he scores.

"It is something to shoot for," Condell said of playing up to expectations. "But it really does not matter who scores the goals as long as we keep winning and we go far in the state tournament."

Wilmington coach Steve Scanlon is not surprised that Condell would mention the team's accomplishments above his own.

"He's a real team first kid," Scanlon said. "He is one of those kids that is always there for you and always doing a great job, but don't read a lot about him in the paper and you don't hear him talking about himself."

While Condell does not want to set the bar too high as far as his personal goals are concerned he is also confident enough in himself and his teammates to know that this could be a great year for both himself and the team.

"Absolutely I think we can do well," Condell said. "Me and a few of the other players are playing year round now and we have a lot of good skill players and we also have the deepest team that we have had since I have been here and probably before that as well."

Condell's working relationship and playing experience with his teammates should also help to make him more effective this season. With midfielder Matt Figueiredo setting up the offense and with fellow striker Jason Pereira alongside up front, the Wildcats will be tough to stop.

"Being a four-year varsity player certainly helps me, but a lot of it has to do with how well Me and Matt play together," Condell said. "We have played together for about eight or nine years and we kind of know what each other is thinking out there."

"And having another striker like Jason is huge. You need two strikers like that because if you only have one, the other team can really key on you and make things very difficult so it is great to have someone like him."

Scanlon agrees that Condell certainly cannot do it alone, but he also knows that his star senior brings plenty of individual skills to the table.

"He's a good finisher," Scanlon said. "He's great around the net and he has some real good skills. He is a very quick player, and he's got a motor that just won't quit."

Condell's quickness and endurance will come as no surprise to those who remember him as a state champion in the 800 meters for the Wilmington High spring track team. Condell feels that competing in both sports helps him be successful in both.

"Soccer is more of a sprint back and forth than in track, but it helps me because as soon as soccer ends or actually even before it ends, track has already started up and I am able to start of well," Condell said. "And track gives the same back to soccer as far as having me prepared."

The rest of the Cape Ann League will likely soon discover that Condell is very prepared for the soccer season.

The Wilmington High Cheerleaders are back this season supporting the Wildcat football team and gearing up for the post season competition meets in which the program has dominated over the years.

WHS Sports Round-Up

Cross Country and girls soccer fall, field hockey team takes one

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Both the Wilmington High boys and girls cross country teams were defeated in separate tri-meets last Wednesday. The boys were defeated by Triton, 23-36 and Newburyport, 26-31, while the girls lost to the same two teams, 20-43 and 25-30, respectively.

In the girls meet, junior Natalie Russo finished first for the Wildcats, taking the top prize against Newburyport, but coming in second overall to Keeley Maguire of Triton Regional. Russo finished with a time of 20:01. Nikki Sirigano was the 'Cats second overall finisher coming in at 22:05, followed by Ali Lyman (22:09), Kerri Spry on Monday to defeat Newburyport, 2-1, putting the team's record to 1-2 thus far.

Last Wednesday the 'Cats were defeated by Masconomet, 6-1. Laurel Pickett scored the lone goal of the game with an assist going to Samantha Palermo.

"We were flat and did not show up ready to play," said head coach Carol Mutchler.

Wilmington High senior goalie Leah Potcner makes a save during Monday night's 3-1 loss to Masconomet in the team's season opener.

(JoeBrownphotos.com)

Although head coach Tom Bradley was happy with the efforts, he said there's a long road ahead for both squads.

"(For the boys) we had way too much of a gap between one and five," he said. "I feel like our top three will have us in most meets, but we need to get more out of four through seven."

He echoed much of the same comments about the girls team. "The gap between one and five was also a problem with the girls (team)," said Bradley. "Against Newburyport, we had the number one runner and they had the next seven finishers. We have a great deal of work to do if we are going to compete."

In the boys tri-meet, Tom Valente finished first for the Wildcats finishing at 17:21 for three miles. Andrew Marra was second for the 'Cats at 18:29, followed by Eddie Silva (18:30), Jimmy DiNuccio (20:36) and Matt Bibeau (20:41).

"Tom (Valente) was pretty impressive," said Bradley. "Andrew ran well and Eddie continues to be a surprise."

and Lisa Hitchins.

Girls Soccer

The Wildcat girls soccer team dropped their first game of the season on Monday night in front of the home crowd to Masconomet Regional, 3-1. Senior tri-captain Katie Cole scored the lone goal for Wilmington heading in a corner kick from sophomore Charlotte Jensen.

Senior tri-captain Leah Potcner made 12 saves in-between the posts, and Jackie Zarembo relieved her and made two stops. In front of the two goalies, Danielle Polcari, Katelyn Hayes and Nicole Bockus played well as defenders.

Wilmington will be back into action Monday night under the lights at against Georgetown beginning at 6:00 pm.

Field Hockey

After getting outscored 9-1 in its first two games of the season, the Wilmington High Field Hockey team came back strong

Two days later, Wilmington was back at it and were blanked by Pentucket, 3-0.

Then after the weekend, the 'Cats were back and focused and edged out Newburyport, 2-1. Sarah Choi scored the game's first goal coming 17 minutes into the second half. The Clippers tied the game about seven minutes later, but then with under four minutes to go in the game, Kerry Hanafin scored on a nice set-up from Pickett.

"The defense was strong (all game)," said Mutchler. "(Jackie) Mullens, Melanie Pickett and (Julie) Murphy (all played well as did Nicole) Engrem, Gabrielle Collins and (Rachel) Haggerty in the mid-field. The young forward line of two juniors and two sophomores worked well together with the starting forwards Sarah Choi, Kerry Hanafin, Samantha Palermo and Laurel Pickett, with support throughout the game from Devon Waitt and Krystal Robarge.

Big Guy lanetta lost for season

Tewksbury High School senior all-conference tackle Travis lanetta sat in the bed of a pickup truck, shaded by the end-zone scoreboard on this Saturday afternoon, surrounded by family, friends and former teammates.

On a day when the temperature hovered in the 90's, it might sound strange to say that the 6'4", 280-pound tackle would much rather have been out on the Doucette Field breaking a sweat with his teammates in a 28-14 win over Tyngsboro that was highlighted by the tough play of the TMHS' offensive line - a group that will have to do without the all-star caliber play of lanetta, who is out for the season with knee and ankle injuries.

Imagine my surprise when I took up my position under the goal posts and announced to anyone who would listen, that I was looking forward to watching the senior tackle at work this season.

Having missed half of last season with a knee injury, it was hard to imagine that this talented kid would have such bad luck two years in a row. It didn't take long for this bad and disappointing news to be confirmed. If I was disappointed, just think how this young man must feel. After all, he was arguably the best lineman in the Merrimack Valley Conference a year ago when bad luck limited him to just half a season. This year was to be a season filled with college scouts just drooling over a line prospect that could move while simultaneously knocking anyone across from him right off the football.

All of that came to an abrupt and disappointing end early in the final preseason scrimmage against Gloucester. Disappointing. That just might be the buzz-word of the day if it weren't for the optimistic outlook presented by young lanetta as he made his way to the pickup truck cheap seats with the aid of some extra-large crutches. I think I was more disappointed than the senior who now faces up to six months of rehabilitation before he can even think about resuming his spring track career. That's no contact sports for six months. Travis may need some knee and ankle rehab, but it's safe to say that his positive outlook is firmly intact even after almost two seasons of lousy luck.

lanetta looks back on the freakish play that ended his season. "We did a screen pass, and I was lead blocking when the guy that tackled (teammate) Justin Tornado got cut off and rolled up the back of my ankle," he remembers. "I tore all the ligaments and tendons in my ankle and broke the lower part of my fibula and I'm out for the season."

Out for season. But not done with thinking about his football future.

"I might go to prep school for a year to show the colleges that I'm still out there, that I can still play," says the ever-optimistic lanetta. "My brother (Kevin), who goes to UMass, is going to talk to the coaches there to see if they think that I should go to prep school and if they still think of me as a prospect. I'm not giving up. I'm just going to have to work harder. This was just another freak accident."

lanetta isn't about to give up anytime soon, and neither are his teammates who survived the heat and were still playing a tough Tyngsboro team hard late in the fourth quarter, when senior defensive back Jim Tarpey absolutely planted a Tyngsboro player with a teeth-rattling tackle.

"Sure, it's hard to watch, but I'll be here watching all the games," said lanetta.

Senior Ed Donovan and junior Justin Griffin filled in ably at Travis' tackle spot, and despite some first quarter struggles, the offensive line hardly missed a beat in the team's opener.

"I think that they all did pretty well today. It's looking good," offered lanetta. "I saw a lot of good holes that they opened today."

Travis might be getting a head start on his post-playing coaching career with the help of veteran TMHS assistant coach Paul Norton.

"Coach Norton said that I'm going to help him coach when I can start walking around a little easier. So, I'll definitely be around giving the guys some pointers," said lanetta.

This talented senior tackle won't be playing, but he'll be around his teammates, and just knowing that will help the team and the head coach feel a whole

Strong showing by all the golfers

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High golf team faced a pair of quality opponents in their first two matches of the season and came away with mixed results as they dropped their season opener last Tuesday to Pentucket by a score of 122-117 and defeating Rockport by a score of 122-117 on Thursday.

The Wildcats got strong performances from several players in both matches, and saw some particularly impressive efforts against Pentucket at the very challenging Bradford Country Club.

"That is a tough course for anyone, never mind playing in your first match of the season," Wilmington coach Steve Lynch said. "We played well, but they edged us, and of course having that as their home course is a very big advantage for them."

Among those playing very well for the Wildcats against Pentucket was freshman Andrew Spurr who shot a 40 to pick up a team high 28 points on the day.

"It was nice to see him play so well in his first match," Lynch said. "I really expect four years of great things out of him."

Aubrey Ungvasky, in her first varsity start, contributed 17 points to the losing effort.

Coming home to face Rockport on Friday at Hillview Country Club, the Wildcats face a certain amount of pressure in not wanting to get their season off to an 0-2 start, and they did a great job to come away with a dramatic victory.

"The kids rose to the challenge on our home course," Lynch said. "We had kids play well from 1 through 8 in our lineup."

In fact, it was one of the Wildcats near the bottom of the lineup that sealed the victory for them when number seven player, sophomore Josh Townsend sank a critical par putt late in his match to give his team the victory.

"We were down by five points an he drained a very difficult par putt that sealed the deal for us," Lynch said. "Only the top six scores count, but I tell our kids that every card can count, like with Josh. He was our seventh player, and his card was very important."

Senior captain Charlie Waite struggled in the Wildcats season opener, but he rebounded in great fashion against Rockport, leading the team with 26 points.

"I was very happy for Charlie, who through his own admission had a disastrous start at Pentucket," Lynch said. "But he not only led our team in points against Rockport, but he showed some great leadership that we expect out of him. He bounced back real well."

Townsend accounted for 17 points on the day as did Nick Bouteris, while Mike Chirocosta and Tim Cushing each added 23 points to help the team get into the win column.

"Everybody is contributing and that, what I like to see. I want to give everybody a chance and at times I will put a player in the lineup when a course might seem tailored to their skills," Lynch said. "We win as a team and we lose as a team, and I thought we played well in these first two matches."

Football team breezes past Belmont

Mello, defense lead Wildcats to opening win

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Ernie Mello rushed for 135 yards and scored three touchdowns, while the first team defense didn't allow a point and gave up just 74 total yards as the Wilmington High Wildcat Football team walked all over Belmont, 34-6, in the team's opening season nonleague game played Friday night under the lights at Alumni Field.

The game marked the 50th anniversary of football games played on Alumni Field, as the 1958 Wildcat team opened that season with a win over North Reading.

Wilmington could have easily scored 50 points on the 50th anniversary, but the Dogs were called off early in the fourth quarter against a very young and inexperienced Belmont team, coming to town from the Middlesex League.

"We really weren't sure what we had so we're very happy with the result," said head coach Bob Almeida. "I thought for the most part our offensive line did a great job up front.

Ernie (Mello) was obviously the key for us. He made a lot of plays and he got some help as the offensive line did a real nice job."

Mello ended up rushing the ball 22 times for 135 yards and scored three touchdowns. He also added a 17-yard reception, while he got the game and the season off to a terrific start when he returned the game's opening kick-off 45 yards before being tackled at the Belmont 37 yard line. Mello, who ended up with 197 total yards, gained 23 yards on four carries in the first series.

Inbetween his carries was a 17-yard pass from Kyle Moon (2-for-4, 34 yards) to Evan Borseti, but the ball was moved back 15 yards a play later when a flag was thrown for a clipping penalty. Two plays later, full-back Corey Groves went up the middle for an 11-yard touchdown run making it 6-0 just 2:55 into the game. Steve Stewart (who by the way tossed five touchdown passes and had three interceptions last year and not four-and-four) nailed the PAT giving the 'Cats the early 7-0 lead.

After the Wildcat defense pinned the Mauraders in deep, they were forced to punt after a three-and-out and Wilmington took over on the Belmont 35. Five plays later, Mello scored his first of three touchdowns, this one coming from 7 yards out and the 'Cats led 13-0 with 3:23 to go in the first quarter as the PAT kick was no good.

Two scrimmage plays later Brian Williams pounced on a fumble at the Belmont 22 yard line. Wilmington managed to move the ball to the 3, but couldn't convert on a fourth-and-goal. Yet Almeida was ecstatic with how the defense played, which included two turnovers, the second by Chris Thibault, which led to a touchdown.

"I was really happy with the defense," said Almeida. "I thought they did really well. The defense really pinned them down in the first two series which helped a lot. Obviously that's a young team who has some problems but we don't worry about that stuff. I mean last year I didn't expect them to be as good as they were, so I'm very pleased with the effort especially for our first game. I'm very pleased."

After both teams turned the ball over, Belmont was forced to punt again, this time from its own 36 yard line. Stewart took the return this time and gained 35 yards down to the Belmont 35. Five running plays later, Mello went into the end zone again, this time from 5 yards out and the 'Cats had a 19-0 lead with 2:31 to go. Moon connected with Kevin Carter for the two-point conversion making it 21-0. Moon didn't have many attempts, but did look good on several play-action calls.

"Kyle is going to have his games when he throws three touchdown passes and gets a ton of yards," said Almeida. "Tonight we just missed on a couple (of those attempts). Steven (Stewart) over threw a little on that reverse play and to be honest maybe we showed a little too much tonight, but I thought we executed very well."

Just 15 seconds after Mello's second touchdown, Belmont had the ball on its own 10 yard line. After taking the snap, the team's quarterback Vincent Cortina bumped into running back Phil Dumont, and meanwhile Thibault came in stripped the ball out of the juggling hands and went in untouched for the 10-yard fumble recovery defensive touchdown giving the 'Cats a commanding 28-0 halftime lead.

After holding Belmont to another three-and-out series, Wilmington's offense put the finishing touches on its strong performance. The 'Cats put together a 9-play, 60-yard drive capped off by Mello's 3-yard run making it 34-0 with 4:24 left in the third quarter.

Belmont did get on the scoreboard with 15 seconds to go making it 34-6.

Wilmington will be back in action this Friday night facing the Cape Ann League Small School foe Newburyport on the road beginning at 7:00 pm.

Big Guy Iannetta lost for season

lot better in the face of adversity. Depth might be a problem in Tewksbury, but intestinal fortitude is never in short supply when you talk about TMHS' football.

"Travis worked tremendously hard from the end of last season through all of the last school year so that he could go to the many showcase type camps over the summer," said TMHS head coach Brian Aylward. "I wasn't sure if he would be ready for B.C. camp but he did it. I was surprised to say the least. "He came to camp this year in better shape than he had in any previous year. He was really poised to have another great season this year."

And then when Aylward saw the injury occur he said, "All I could think about is all of the hard work that Travis had put into getting ready to return to the field. It really is a shame," he said before last weekend's opener and then added after the win over Tyngsboro, "The loss of Travis is just huge for us. I'm glad that he was here today to see the guys that we have in his place play great."

Iannetta has no doubt that he'll be back at some point, whether it's winter or spring track, and eventually, football at the college level.

"I can be back for spring track for sure, but it's iffy that I can be back for winter track," he said.

What's not "iffy" is this young man's outlook. Be there for your teammates while you recover, don't look back and always take a peek at the next challenge or task at hand. Sounds a lot like a typical Tewksbury kid. This 'Tewksbury Tough' thing is not just lip service when you get to see it up close and personal. As close as the back of a pickup truck parked behind the end-zone on a 90 degree day.

"I think Travis learned a lot about himself through that whole ordeal. I think he knows that he can overcome any challenge he faces," said Aylward. "Travis is a great kid in and out of school and I know that he will get through this adversity just like he did last year. He won't be done with football either."

Touring the Nation's Capitol and the Red Sox bullpen

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The last time I penned a column similar to this one, was in 1995. It was the last time I visited Camden Yards in Baltimore, and I remember then co-worker Phil Fenton poked fun of me for my headline saying "My Trip to Baltimore". Now 12 years later, I made another trip South to the Sunny Skies of Maryland and I'd like to share some of the experiences of those few days with my wonderful readers.

I'm not going to give you every detail of the trip of when I got something to eat, what time I showered and when I crossed the street, but I thought I could offer a few good side-notes in case you would like to visit the city yourself. When I arrived with a friend on Saturday, he asked if I wanted to take the Metro and then tour Washington, D.C. since he's never done it. I said sure since the last time I did it I was in eighth grade.

So on a very hot sunny Saturday afternoon, we took the trip around D.C. We saw the Washington Memorial and climbed the steps all the way up to the Lincoln Memorial which was pretty damn cool if I say so myself. Then we walked back towards the Metro, took a nice power nap on the green grass of the park, before being able to see the White House through the trees and the blue skies. We didn't make it towards the White House because frankly it was too hot, but certainly walking around that area was something I thoroughly enjoyed and certainly recommend to anyone who has yet to do it.

On Sunday, we had tickets to see the Red Sox-Orioles game. My friend Derek and his girlfriend Lindsay got the tickets several months back and didn't realize it the same day of the Patriots opener. So no problem - we catch the first half of the Pats game at a local joint across the street and then head over to the Sox game which would probably be in the second or third inning at that point. The plan worked perfectly. We saw the Pats take a half-time lead, before walking in to the gorgeous Camden Yards, right before the Sox grabbed a 2-0 lead on Mike Lowell's base knock up the middle.

After sitting in our seats for the next few innings, my friend Matt wanted to take a tour around the stadium. So I joined him and we ended up checking out Boog Powell's Ribs, and Eutaw Street where Ken Griffey hit his 4,000 foot home run back in the day, and then we ended up behind the Red Sox bullpen. That was pretty neat. There I watched Hideki Okajima, Brian Corey and Jonathan Papelbon all warm up. It was great seeing Papelbon stretch, light toss and then fire fastballs one after another into Kevin Cash's mitt. It was also interesting to see Okajima warm-up. He had that nice and smooth left handed delivery, but then immediately you realize why this guy has been struggling the past month because he was probably threw 75 warm-up pitches.

Anyway, that was a lot of fun. Standing several feet away from those guys warming up, while cheering them on all during a gorgeous sunny afternoon in an awesome ballpark. I've been very fortunate enough to visit a lot of Major League Baseball Stadiums and certainly Camden is right up there with Wrigley Field and yes even Yankee Stadium for my favorite opposing ballparks.

Before coming back this past Monday night, I ended the trip that afternoon by taking a trip North to Annapolis and checking out the Naval Academy. That was also very enjoyable. The gift shops were great, the exhibits upstairs were fascinating and just the entire atmosphere there gave you goosebumps. Then we walked up and down the sidewalks checking out the area.

If you ever wanted to go to Baltimore or ever get the chance to spend a weekend there, I highly suggest catching a ball game, checking out the Nation's Capital and all of its history, not to mention Annapolis. You will enjoy it as much as I did.

Sully will be missed

When I got to the office on Tuesday morning, I found out that Paul Sullivan passed away. I'd like to offer my condolences to his family, especially his son Ryan. When Ryan attended Tewksbury High School years ago, I wrote several stories on him, mostly in track. He was a good hurdler and he overcame lots of obstacles in order to place high in meets, especially in the post season. And all the while his father Paul was there to watch.

I got to know Paul just by those meets, and then listening to him on the radio or reading his columns. He worked here at the Town Crier before I became employed here. Paul was a really good guy. We would talk about writing, and he would give me tips but also offer all kinds of very nice words saying that I was doing a good job. I'll never forget things like that. He didn't know me from a hole in the wall so he didn't need to be so kind.

I didn't know Paul all that well, but what I did know was that he was a very nice man, who I enjoyed spending time with.

It's a very sad day to know that Paul Sullivan is no longer with us. I offer my condolences to his entire family, especially Ryan.

Always remember

Speaking of sad days, of course the day I'm typing this column is the sixth anniversary of September, 11th, 2001. We all have stories of where we were when it happened, and how some of us new people who passed away and so forth. I don't want to reflect any of that or recall any moments of that horrible, horrible day.

All I want to do is take this time to offer my thoughts and prayers to those families who lost loved ones, and to all of the members of the armed forces who have served, or who will serve for all of us Americans to remain the number one nation in the world.

I know this past weekend my friend Derek's girlfriend Lindsay said she had just been recalled to go back to Iraq for the War after already been over there. That's pretty scary - and even scarier knowing this War is not ending anytime soon.

So again thanks goes out to all of the Lindseys in America who are fighting the good fight.

Macy making her mark at UMass Lowell

By DAN IGO
Sports Correspondent

Former Tewksbury High standout Sammy Macy is making her mark for the UMass Lowell field hockey.

The freshman forward, who was the 2006 Town Crier Tewksbury Female Athlete of the Year, scored her first career goal in last Tuesday's 2-0 win against St. Anselm. She followed that performance with an assist in Saturday's 4-3 victory over Assumption. It was her first assist of the year.

Joe Davidian also of Tewksbury, had two solo tackles for Worcester State, but it was in a losing effort. The Lancers lost to WPI 40-14 to move their record to 0-2. Davidian has tackles on the year, four of them solo.

Tewksbury field hockey star Courtney O'Brien scored her first goal of the year for Bryant University in its 5-2 victory over Merrimack on Monday. For the season, O'Brien has three assists in addition to the goal. She has started all six games for the Bulldogs. Last year, she had four goals and four assists.

Another former TMHS Field Hockey star, Chrissy Lowe, assisted on the game winning goal last Thursday helping Bentley win its third straight game a 3-2 victory over Franklin Pierce in Northeast-10 Conference play last Thursday night.

Bentley, ranked ninth nationally in Division II, remained undefeated in the conference (3-0) and improved to 3-1 overall. Win number one continued to elude Franklin Pierce, which has suffered two of its four losses in overtime.

Tewksbury native Lorraine Sullivan came in 101st place with a time of 47:53. Mark Donovan's time of 48:58 placed him 108th. Jack Kelleher crossed the line at 54:46, which was good enough for 127th place.

Under 12-4 Girls soccer win local tournament

The Wilmington GU12-4 team traveled to North Reading over the Labor Day Weekend for the Fall Kickoff Classic Tournament.

The girls started off the weekend with an exciting match versus an always tough Burlington squad. The Wilmington girls had come to play and opened the scoring at 12:36. Ashleigh Howland began the play by taking a Burlington defender deep into the corner. From there, she turned and made a perfect back pass to Christina D'Ambrosio who one timed it over the head of the Burlington keeper. Burlington was not to be denied as they made rush after rush at the Wilmington net. Katherine McKenna thwarted all but one of the attempts as Burlington finally pushed one past her with ten seconds to go in the half.

The second half saw the Wildcats play great defense led by Kerry Ryan and Caitlin Derrickson. The final score was 1-1. Framingham was next up for the Wildcats. Ashleigh Howland and Amanda Richards rose to the occasion in this one as Ashleigh completed a three goal hat trick and Amanda delivered two goals of her own. Kelly Hartsough chipped in a goal as well. Kristen Marranzini and Alexa Burr picked up assists as the girls delivered a 6-0 shutout.

Strong defensive play by Alyssa Cieplik and Hannah Kirby and great goaltending by Heather Benson were also key in this one. Sunday afternoon the 'Cats had a must win game in order to keep their hopes for a championship alive. Going up against the No. Reading Hornets, the girls came out flying. Their first goal came at 5:36 of the first half on a nice 15-yard scoring drive by Kristen Marranzini.

The Wildcats then turned it up a notch and Ashleigh Howland tallied her fourth goal of the tourney after a nice touch pass from Christina D'Ambrosio. The Wildcat mid-fielders; Meghan Sullivan, Alyssa Cieplik, Hannah Kirby, Alexa Burr and Katherine McKenna continued to dominate play.

This play combined with a solid defensive core and outstanding goal keeping kept the pesky Hornets off the board and vaulted the 'Cats into the championship round.

Labor Day found the girls up against a very solid team from No. Andover. Katherine McKenna started in goal and for the third game in a row pitched a first half shutout. The offensive pressure was tremendous right from the first touch. No. Andover held firm until almost the fifteen minute mark. Heather Benson set up Amanda Richards for a picture perfect top corner shot and the Wildcats had a 1-nil lead.

The No. Andover girls would not go down easily. The next twenty minutes had the fans on the edge of their seats and kept their hearts pounding. Heather Benson was outstanding in goal as she denied a volley of shots and maintained her personal streak of four shutouts. Finally, with only ten minutes to go in the game, Wilmington got the insurance goal they were looking for. The combination of

Meghan Sullivan and Ashleigh Howland moved the ball smartly across the field to a waiting Katherine McKenna who wasted no time finding the back of the net.

Two minutes later, Kelly Hartsough got her second goal of the tournament and the Championship was sealed!

Final score Wilmington 3 and No. Andover 0. The Wildcats third consecutive shutout.

Season Opener over Arlington Catholic

Rams celebrate with dramatic win

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Going into the season, it promised to be an exciting season for the Shawsheen Tech football team as they attempt to have another outstanding season, but nobody could have expected just what a thrilling finish they would have to their season opener on Saturday afternoon against non-league rival Arlington Catholic at Samuel J. Cassidy Field.

Trailing 20-14 late in the fourth quarter of a hard fought game in sweltering heat, the Rams lined up to attempt to block a punt deep in Cougar territory, and take one more shot at the end zone. Then the Rams got their first big break of the season as the snap from center sailed over the punter's head and the Shawsheen took over at the AC 11 yard line with 20 seconds left in the game.

Senior quarterback Joe Gore of Wilmington then hit John Allen with a 10 yard pass that put the ball inside the one yard line and sophomore Chris Clark, who had missed a good portion of the game due to cramps from the incredible heat, returned to the game and responded moments later with a burst into the end zone for his second touchdown of the game to tie the score at 20-20 with six seconds left.

John McLaughlin added his third extra point of the day to give the Rams a thrilling opening season victory.

"It was a great way to start the season," Shawsheen coach Al Costabile said. "I think our kids really learned a lot about themselves, with the courage they had to show to not quit with the conditions and they also learned that a game is really never over 'till it's over."

With the way the game started it looked as if the Rams would not need any late game heroics, as Clark started this season just the way he finished his spectacular freshman season, breaking off a spectacular 63 yard run on the Rams first play from scrimmage for a quick 7-0 lead.

"He got some great blocking and had a great hole to run through and then he got a great block from his fullback Josh Delisle," Costabile said. "He did a great job picking his way through and it got us off to a great start."

After AC responded with a score of their own and a missed extra point later in the quarter, the Rams defense came up with a huge play to extend their lead before the half when Shaun Miller recovered a botched pitch attempt by the Cougar quarterback and returned it 30 yards for the score and a 14-6 lead at the half for the Rams.

"We got a big rush and Miller was right on the spot to pounce on the ball," Costabile said. "He's got a great nose for the football. He did an awesome job of stretching out the last couple of yards to get into the end zone. It was a real heads up play."

After a third quarter touchdown pass to Andrew Manning along with a two point conversion by running back Derek Harmon, followed by a fourth quarter touchdown run by Harmon on which the tow point conversion failed, the Rams found themselves in a 20-14 hole.

Shawsheen Tech Football Coach Al Costabile talks things over with his team during a timeout. Costabile guided the Rams to an exciting 21-20 victory over Arlington Catholic in the team's season opener played in Billerica on Saturday.

(JoeBrownphotos.com)

The drama of course came very late in the game, but one of the key plays occurred much earlier in the fourth quarter for the Rams, according to Costabile.

"A big turning point came for us after the touchdown in the fourth quarter when Mike Allen broke up the conversion with a great play," Costabile said. "On the ensuing kickoff we got a return of about 40 yards and even though we were eventually forced to punt, for the first time in the second half we had the edge in field position which turned out to be huge for us at the end of the game."

Between the clutch extra points of McLaughlin, the great punting of Josh Delisle and big plays like the one they received on the kickoff return, Costabile felt that the special teams, led by special teams coordinator Jay Tildsley of Wilmington, deserved a lot of credit for the win.

"They played a huge part in the win for us," Costabile said. "We outplayed them in every phase of special teams play, and that proved to be very important for us."

Along with their opposition, the Rams like most teams on Saturday were also battling the 95 degree heat and the extra wear and tear on their bodies that comes from playing in such extreme conditions.

The Rams did lose some players, including Clark and Gore for periods of the game due to the heat, but those players came back and the team never quit and Costabile feels that the extra effort his team put in can be directly attributed to his tri-captains, Gore of Wilmington, Steve McIsaac of Wilmington and Delisle of Tewksbury.

Along with connecting on 13 of 17 passes for 119 yards, Gore also had six tackles on defense from his safety position, while McIsaac did a tremendous job in his first ever start at center and also led the team with 12 tackles, seven of them solo, and Delisle had ten tackles and two interceptions and did a great job punting the football.

"I really feel that these three players elevated their play and were definitely our leaders in this game," Costabile said. "I can't say enough about the job these guys did of leading by example."

Next week the Rams will hit the road to take on another non-league opponent when they travel to Westford to take on Nashoba Tech on Friday night at 7:00.

Volleyball team sweeps

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Perhaps there is no such thing as a perfect start to a season, but it would be hard to imagine any team getting off to a better start than that of the Shawsheen Tech volleyball team. The Lady Rams are off to a 2-0 start on the young season, but even more impressively they have yet to lose a set, as they have swept to victories over CAC rival Greater Lowell and non-league rival Ayer.

Last Thursday afternoon, Shawsheen opened their season with a 3-0 win over the Gryphons by scores of 25-18, 25-13, 25-21. One day later they came back to beat Ayer 25-20, 25-13, 27-25.

"The kids are off to a great start," Shawsheen coach Chet Flynn said. "One key to that is that they have played together before, but it is also because of just the experience they have gained overall and that we are very consistent. We make very few errors."

Tori Philbrook and Julie Raymond have led the way in the early going for the Lady Rams with Philbrook scoring 15 service points and collecting five kills in the season opener, while following that up with seven more kills against Ayer.

"Tori just seems to be an awful lot stronger this year," Flynn said. "Her serves and her hits are just heavier this year. I noticed it early on in practice and she has carried it into the season."

Raymond has been an All-League player for two year running so her performance has certainly been no surprise, but it is still nice to see for Flynn.

"Julie has been extremely so insistent and she has been a very vocal leader for us," Flynn said. "She really drives what goes on out there for us and she leads not only by her play, but also by letting the other kids know what is going on."

Although Shawsheen has swept to each of their victories, they have been involved in a few close games, which Flynn feels can only help his team down the road, and is already a big difference from last year when it seemed they would lose many close games.

"Last year we had a lot of matches we could have won and games that could have gone the other way, but this year things have been different," Flynn said. "Against Greater Lowell, we had a big led, but when we got a little sloppy and they came back to tie it at 20-20 but we battled back to get the win."

With CAC play now gearing up, Flynn knows his team cannot be too proud of its fast start.

"We have to look at each individual match as a challenge and not look ahead," Flynn said. "We know we will have some great matches against our league competition."

Pop Warner E-1 team starts off against Wakefield

Wilmington's E 1 Pop Warner team had a hard fought battle with Wakefield in their home opener.

Wakefield's offense came out strong, scoring on their first drive. But the Wildcat defense was not going quietly. They were led by the strong play of Kyle Penney, who forced one fumble and recovered another. Graham Smith, Tyler DeJesus, Brandon Belmonte, Michael Daley, Anthony Dellanno and Devon Botelho all had outstanding tackles.

The offensive effort was led by running backs Justin Collins and Sam Jennings. The blocking of Matthew Blair and John Maga set up a 95-yard touchdown run by quarterback Robbie DuCharme. The offense was also highlighted by a 9-yard reception by Jonathon Simmons, and a 12-yard run by Michael DuCharme. All the players on the E1 team had a terrific first game.

The coaches would also like to thank the E cheerleaders for their efforts. Wilmington's E1 plays Reading next Sunday at home.

The Wilmington Girls U9-2 travel soccer team had a successful debut at North Reading's Annual "Fall Kick-Off Classic" Soccer Tournament held over Labor Day weekend. The tournament was the first time the girls have played together as a team. They more than held their own against competition that was older and more experienced, losing only 1 of the 4 games that they played. It was a great way for the girls to start their first travel season for Wilmington, which will begin on Saturday September 7th.

Former Stoneham resident, Glenn K. Currie

Boxcars & Diaries

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

Flying over the Appalachian her in the east or the western part of the country's great Rocky Mountain range one can look down and see a lonely village or town appear out of nowhere and it might conjure up thoughts that a person wishes they could put into words.

In his poem "Places," which appears in his first book "Daydreams" (2004, Snap Screen Press), former Stoneham resident Glenn K. Currie has found the words for which mere mortals search high and low. In his latest book "A Boy's First Diary" (2007, Snap Screen Press) Currie is able to put into words the great thoughts and fears that only a 10-year old boy can conceive.

The following is an excerpt from Places. It comes in the middle of the thought as an airplane is flying westward in its chase to chase the sun:

"...Below appearing in the dusk,
Are dollhouse clusters,
Of warm lights.

"Small worlds where evening comes
At measured pace,
Embraced with pleasure.

"Towns where people walk,

Looking up to see,
Pastel streaks in the sky.

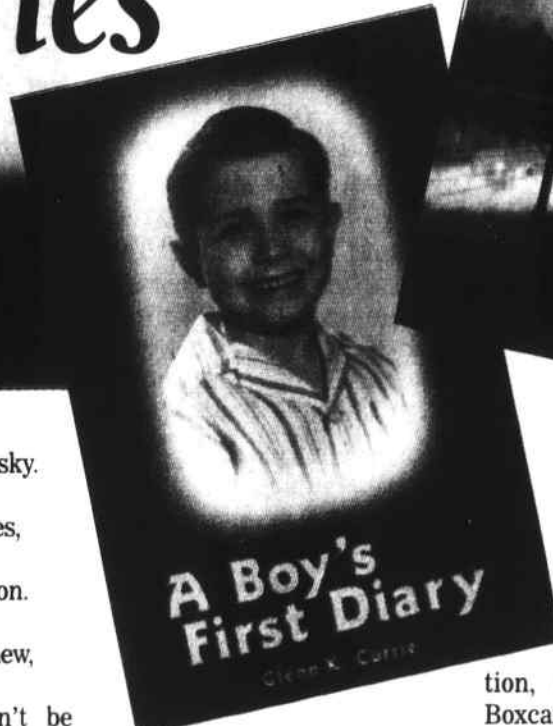

"Places without names,
Quickly fading,
Lost behind the horizon.

"Places that never knew,
That they were lost,
But hope they won't be found."

Over the years, Currie has been able to show his range of emotions as he demonstrates in this humorous piece Campsite Toilets from A Boy's First Diary. The piece shows the imagined real fears we face as children:

"I don't like the toilet when we go camping.
They're like Uncle Edwin's outhouse, only larger.

I worry about falling through the seat.

They make the opening too big for kids.

"Grown-ups don't have to worry as much.

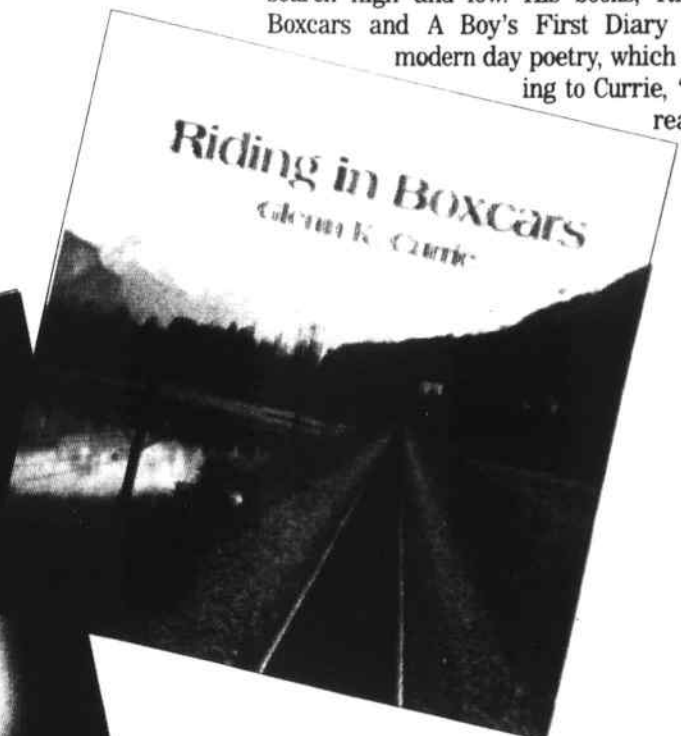

They can cover the whole seat easy.

But kids have to balance on the edge,

And some of the holes are pretty deep..."

Glenn K. Currie, former Stoneham resident has found the words for which most of us search high and low. His books, Riding in Boxcars and A Boy's First Diary include modern day poetry, which according to Currie, "is very readable".

Lieutenant in the U. S. Navy.
"I didn't start writing poetry seriously until Vietnam," Currie said.

That was around 1968 during the Tet Offensive. After his release from the Navy, Currie entered the stress-filled world of corporate management where he stayed from 1970 to 1986 and then returned to New Hampshire, where he and his wife, Susan, now reside and started his own consulting business.

In 2004 the decision was made to do something with all of the poetry he had been writing over the years. According to Currie, the decision was made after he found it difficult to find a new book of verses that he could understand.

"3:10 to Yuma" full of gun-blazing action

"3:10 TO YUMA" GRADE: ****

"3:10 to Yuma" offers plenty of guns-blazing, pulse-pounding action, but it's the excellent lead performances that stay with you.

Russell Crowe and Christian Bale play, essentially, opposite numbers in James Mangold's ("Walk the Line") update of the 1957 film of the same name.

Crowe plays notorious criminal Ben Wade, who crosses paths with cattle rancher Dan Evans (Bale) after Wade and his gang rob a coach full of Southern Pacific money. As Dan and his sons watch from afar, Wade proves himself to be the remorseless criminal of legend.

Crowe's killer is cerebral and seductive. Crowe plays Wade as slightly amused in general but fully engaged when addressing someone who interests him, especially when that someone is female.

When Wade ends up at Dan's ranch house, Dan's wife (Gretchen Mol, whose old-school beauty suits the setting) quickly gets taken in. Dan's older boy (Logan Lerman, bursting with adolescent energy) recognizes immediately that the criminal is a far more forceful presence than his dad.

Nobody is all good or bad, and the spaces in between keep the ever-evolving relationship between Wade and Evans interesting. The rancher, a former Union sharpshooter who lost part of his leg in the war, needs money to save his ranch, so he joins the ragtag band of men accompanying Wade, after the criminal is captured, to the train that will take him to prison.

Bale is instantly sympathetic, a visibly vulnerable guy who seems unable to catch a break. A drought has ravaged his land and he no longer can provide for his family. The angular Bale looks hungry, in sharp contrast to the full-faced Crowe.

What follows is the predictable parade of gunplay, along with some more intimate acts of violence. The action is no more credible than a 1950s shoot-'em-up, but it's a lot more exciting (and occasionally disturbing). The film is beautifully shot, with vivid close-ups of wheeling horses and smoking six-guns. And the performances are top-notch, particularly the chemistry between the two stars as they move from guarded respect to macho rivalry to, well, no need to spoil the ending.

It's all great fun, not to be taken too seriously - which would be fine, except that one gets the sense that this film wants to be taken seriously. With the exception of Bale's acting, however, everything in Yuma is an amped-up cliché.

Even more over-the-top is Ben Foster as Wade's lieutenant, whose quick-draw skills would give Doc Holliday a scare.

What 3:10 to Yuma lacks in believability and originality, however, it makes up for in excitement.

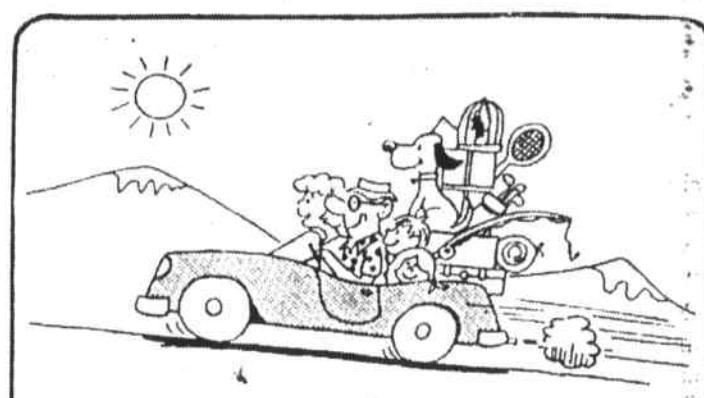

"HALLOWEEN" GRADE: **

There are instances in Rob Zombie's prequel/remake of John Carpenter's Halloween where killer Michael Myers is compared to Frankenstein's monster. The idea that society made Myers into the bogeyman isn't necessarily a new one, but the challenge of looking at 10 year-old Michael Myers (in a terrific performance by Daeg Faerch) as a real kid is by far the strongest stuff in Zombie's undertaking.

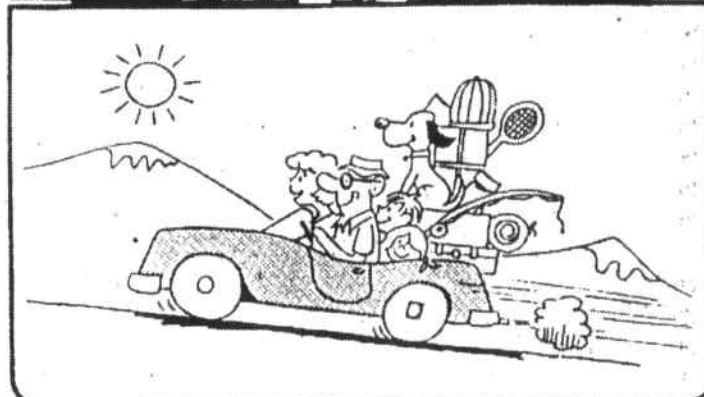

Treated as garbage by his stepfather, sister and classmates, Myers' instability is first revealed when he gives his pet rat a live dissection. The kid starts killing people, and they're not clean murders. Zombie registers the finality of death - letting us feel the weight of a human life being taken away. Once the film steps into a remake of the Carpenter film in its second half, it loses its seriousness.

As soon as Michael Myers becomes a faceless evil killing force, Zombie wants to forget that he introduced him as a human. The setup feels like part of a separate movie. Even the filmmaking takes a hit. When Rush's "Tom Sawyer" plays before a murder, Zombie doesn't build it to the expected melee of violence and classic rock that would have made the scene memorable. (An earlier moment of child Myers' dawning apathy set to Nazareth's "Love Hurts" is fantastic.)

There's an effort to update the story through the contemporary slang of the three teenage friends Myers' targets (played by Scout Taylor-Compton, Kristina Klebe, and series fan-fave Danielle Harris).

When portions of the film so closely resemble the original, you wonder why Zombie wanted to reinvent the wheel at all.

THE NANNY DIARIES GRADE: **

Any woman who would drag a man to this and have him sit through it without complaint should be brought up on charges of cruel and unusual punishment. This is such a chick flick, that sitting through the first hour could be hazardous to his health.

Old appliance drive Saturday in Woburn

WOBURN -The next recycling drive for old appliances is set for Saturday, Sept. 15 outside the Daily Times Chronicle, Woburn from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Residents of neighboring communities are invited to participate. Proceeds will benefit the Council of Social Concern in Woburn.

This new recycling program was instituted last January by East Woburn resident and former City Council President Paul Medeiros, after the city began charging residents a fee for curbside pickup of their old appliances.

Items such as old televisions, computer monitors and air conditioners, are collected at drop-off sites setup throughout Woburn at various times during the year. According to Medeiros, about 97 percent of the items collected are either recycled or reused.

Local businesses are also encouraged to come drop off their old appliances.

Medeiros believes that people want to do the right thing by recycling their old appliances, instead of just abandoning them to avoid the city's fee.

The affordable charge at these events makes it easier for environment-conscious individuals to dispose of their old appliances and devices.

At these events, not only are citizens helping keep the environment and their community clean, but they are also supporting local organizations.

All of the money collected at these events goes to the local sponsor. Since the program's initiation in January, over $8,000 has been raised for local organizations.

The fee structure is as follows (the city's collection fee in parentheses):

Computer Monitor - $5 ($30)
Television - $10 ($30)
Refrigerator - $10 ($30)
Air Conditioner - $10 ($30)
Freezer - $10 ($30)
Stove/Washer/Dryer - $10 ($15)

Water Heater - $10 ($15)
Trash Compactor - $10 ($15)
Dehumidifier - $10 ($15)

The following items will be accepted for a $1 each: Microwave ovens, garbage disposals, computers, electronic office equipment such as calculators, typewriters, fax/copy machines, printers, telephones, and consumer electronics such as laptops, cameras, video/audio/DVD/VCR.

The following items will also be accepted for a voluntary donation: Computer parts and accessories, plugs, wires, drives, cell phones, video games and any additional parts or accessories.

For more information about this recycling program designed to save you money while raising money for local organizations and keeping the community and environment clean, please call Paul or Lori Medeiros at 781-938-0297 or e-mail paulderman@verizon.net.

(The Daily Times Chronicle is located on Arrow Drive off Wildwood Street, behind the Crate and Barrel outlet. Wildwood Street runs parallel to Washington Street between Salem Street and Olympia Avenue.)

After the Sept. 15 collection, the following drive is Saturday, Oct. 20 at the Woburn Boys & Girls Club with proceeds benefiting the club.

About the Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

WINNERS ALL AROUND

Pretty spiffy in North Reading

"Anyone driving past the town common has noticed the latest decorative touch being applied to the town's historic district," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"Following the installation of decorative street lamps and the planting of new Liberty Elm trees along the common's Haverhill St. border, workmen have been busy installing an attractive red brick sidewalk.

"The 'bricks' are actually a red plastic resin heated to 400 degrees and poured into place over the previous base of bituminous asphalt.

"The resin is installed to a thickness of one-half to three-quarters of an inch and then stamped in a brickwork pattern.

"The result is not only very realistic, says DPW Director David Hanlon, but very durable as well. The brickwork sidewalk will run the length of the common from its Bow St. side to the Haverhill St. intersection....

"This ties the town's historic district together with a common theme and makes people realize they're in the district," said Hanlon.

"The Historic District Commission approved the installation of the product, he stated....

"The neighboring towns of Andover and Wilmington have also installed the product in specific areas recently, he added...."

Such good years (80s and 90s) in Winchester

"The Winchester Rotary Club recently celebrated its 80th anniversary with a special luncheon meeting held at the Woburn Country Club," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"At the same time the Club honored one of its long time members and past presidents, Dick Donovan, who was celebrating his 90th birthday.

"The Club was formed by 28 charter members in April, 1927, during the presidency of Calvin Coolidge and in the same year as Lindberg's famous flight and the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti in Boston.

"The club's first fundraising event that year was a concert performed by the U.S. Marine Band at Town Hall leading to the first financial grant of $1,000 donated to the Winchester Hospital, which had been established some 15 years earlier.

"Through countless fundraising events since then, including the many years of second-hand furniture sales at the Rotary 'barn,' over $1,000,000 has been raised and donated to numerous causes and organizations around the Winchester area. Current Rotary fundraising events include the charity golf tournament and the Winchester Town Day pancake breakfast.

"The club also marked Donovan's birthday by holding a surprise 'This is Your Life' slide presentation with numerous pictures of his life and his many contributions to the Winchester community.

"Born in Worcester, Donovan eventually settled in Winchester where his engineering firm, Richard J. Donovan, Inc., once occupied the entire second floor of the Locatelli Building, above what is now T. Michael's to Starbucks in the center of town...."

'Time well spent' for Reading, Woburn, Stoneham

"Executive Director Paul Meaney of the Woburn Business Association (WBA) and the area business community have been digesting changes to plans on the I-93/I-95 interchange improvements for nearly five years now," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"In Meaney's view, however, it's been time well spent.

"Speaking at a Rotary Club luncheon, Meaney said the discussions with the state have been productive, especially with a less severe butchering of the overcrowded area of I-95 (Rte. 128) and a more reasonable approach to solving traffic problems.

"In retrospect, a convoluted complex of flyovers making the area spaghetti junction was just not the way to go, he said, noting the protests by homeowners in Reading and Woburn, the business communities in Reading, Woburn and Stoneham, and other groups, have paid dividends.

"I think the new plans will serve Woburn well," said WBA executive director. The reduction from 8-10 flyovers and a butchering of Reading and Woburn neighborhoods as suggested five years ago meant the loss of 41 or 42 homes, he pointed out, and now no homes will be taken; The number of flyovers, he pointed out, have been reduced to two.

"The plan, he pointed out, now moves to the federal environmental impact stage with additional softening of the impact on the area ..."

"About the Towns" covers recent events in the 10-town Middlesex East area. Poetry writer was saying," Currie said.

from S-1

It is his opinion that the writers of the late 1900's were losing touch with the people who were trying to appreciate poetry. He blames this on a number of reasons, including poets that were experimenting in free verse while also doing other "types of experimentation."

According to a statement from his website, "The result has been that, in many places, poetry has fallen off the radar screen of popular work. There are some major exceptions, including some wonderful writers who live in New Hampshire, but in general, the market for new poetry has been microscopic."

"I believe that much of this is the fault of the writers. Many got bogged down in personal politics, promoting causes, ego-entertainment, and self-directed therapy sessions, and they forgot about relating to the reader. And after a little thought, the reader decided that he or she had better things to do than to enter those quicksand worlds."

Currie also notes that he does not claim to be an expert on poetry.

"I would describe (my work) as very readable," Currie said in an interview for this story.

He added, "Poetry had seemed to be lost to the public in the mid-'70's."

He does see poetry making a comeback, if not to its full glory of yore. On his website he states "But I doubt if we ever get back to the days when Longfellow, Whitman and Poe, or Sandburg, Frost and Dickinson were household names. There are a variety of reasons, however, why poetry could once again become a happy and welcomed option for the general public."

1. The younger generation already has developed a modern version of beat poets. These rappers make lots of money and sell lots of recordings talking about a street life that relates to a very small percentage of our culture. They chant it to a beat, the words are thrown out there like litter, and most of it is drivel, but it sells well.

2. Poetry in general is almost perfectly attuned to the pace of modern society. It can be read in short bursts that fit right in with the one to three minute attention spans of our TV-trained population.

3. Poetry is amazingly flexible in all of its forms. It can challenge the reader and writer in lots of different ways, and convey the whole range of emotions in a compact delivery.

4. Most readers have dabbled in poetry at one time or another. This allows it to take on a participatory type of relationship with readers in some environments.

5. The reader can connect quickly with the message or theme of a book of poetry. And if it does connect, it can be read many times versus the one time hit or miss approach of most books.

His objective to writing was to make the books appealing to people. It was his opinion that people were looking for color in their lives, so he meshed his second passion, photography with his writing.

According to Currie, each page of his first two books has color photos from his own collection of pictures he has taken over the years. After writing the poetry he searches through his pictures to find one that will complement the writing and then adds a caption to it.

However, Diary is a bit different. Currie notes that the book was not planned and came about as a rout was taking place on the televised football game he was watching.

He started fooling around with some four line quatrains about incidents in his youth. After showing a few of them to family and friends he was encouraged to keep going with the collection and ended up with close to 100, which he was finally able to bring down to the 78 that appear in Diary.

Currie has been surprised by the diverse audience that is reading Diary. His objective was to write it for adults who grew up in the more innocent age of the 1950's.

However, he is finding that parents with children are reading the book and that the children themselves are enjoying the work.

Currie related the story on one teacher who was reading

Calendar

from S-6

and children's fashions from the Rugged Bear of Andover.

Facing a diagnosis of cancer is a herculean challenge. Trying to make a difference in the lives of those with cancer is also a big challenge. On Sunday, September 16, Lexi-Skye Alden and her family will join more than 7,000 people taking on this challenge by walking in the 19th Annual Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk.

Midnight munching can damper diet plans

By now many people realize that eating has as much to do with boredom or habit as it does with hunger. Studies have shown that munching while watching television or being distracted cause people to consume much more than they would if they were taking stock of what they were eating.

Sometimes even the most steadfast dieters and healthy eaters fall victim to the late-night munchies. For whatever reasons, the refrigerator or the snack cabinet seems to beckon after you've washed the last dinner or dessert plate. Sometimes this has to do with true hunger - you haven't consumed enough nutritional food during the day. Most other times it's because you're bored or stressed out. But there are better ways to deal with these cravings - ones that are beneficial for your health and waistline.

Break the fast: Despite continued reminders that breakfast is the most important meal of the day, many people continue to skip breakfast whether they're in a rush or simply not hungry. Eating at night can cause hunger to wane in the morning and exacerbate the cycle. However, you need that morning fuel to last through the day and keep hunger at bay until your next meal. Starting out your day with a nutritional deficit will most definitely lead to hunger later on.

Assess your reasons for eating: Is your stomach truly grumbling for food? Or are you bored or stressed out and don't know how else to placate yourself? If you really are hungry, have a light snack, such as air-popped popcorn, yogurt, oatmeal or peanut butter and apple slices. These will fill you up without a lot of fat and calories. If you're not hungry, think of an activity that will calm you or distract you, such as a walk or reading a book.

Fill up during the day: If you restrict your food intake too much during the day it could end up haunting you in the end. Fuel your body with fiber and protein and make sure you eat enough so you don't binge at night. Also, drink plenty of water, which will also lead to a feeling of fullness.

Get the facts about acne treatments

By now, most people are familiar with the common skin condition acne. Everyone from teenagers to adults, and celebrities to regular folk have experienced acne, and all of the nodules, blackheads, whiteheads, and cysts that go along with the package.

Because acne is such a visible condition, and one that brings embarrassment to many people despite how commonplace it is, the search is on for the fastest and most effective ways to clear up the complexion. Over time certain myths have developed promising miracle treatments for acne. It should be noted that treating acne takes diligence and time.

Acne treatment can be categorized in three main ways: OTC for minor to moderate cases, prescription for moderate to severe cases, and experimental - made up of homespun remedies that may or may not work.

Over the Counter (OTC) Treatments

OTC acne treatments typically consist of face washes, soaps and topical products that work over a series of days or weeks. The pimple that you see on your face has been developing for a while, so it's unreasonable to expect that any treatment method will produce immediate results. However, with regular use, results may be apparent anywhere from 2 to 8 weeks.

The common ingredients found in OTC acne treatments are benzoyl peroxide and salicylic acid. Here's a brief explanation of what they do.

Benzoyl peroxide is an antibacterial medication that is used to clear up the bacteria that aggravate the acne condition. Acne is not caused by dirt or eating greasy foods. It is the result of excessive oil production in hair follicles that gets trapped in pores along with shed skin cells. Bacteria can grow in this environment, aggravating the pores. Benzoyl peroxide kills the bacteria and also dries out the skin so that outer layers fall off and therefore do not contribute to pore blockage.

Salicylic acid is a keratolytic drug (a drug that removes the outer layer of skin) that is used to treat various skin conditions, like warts and pimples.

Many OTC products feature a combination of benzoyl peroxide and salicylic acid, so that skin is exfoliated and cleansed of bacteria.

Aggressive Treatments

Topical products are applied directly to the skin. There are prescription products that dermatologists can suggest.

Topical antibiotics help stop, slow, and prevent bacterial growth and reduce inflammation. Topical retinoids are made from vitamin A and work by opening clogged pores. Dermatologists claim that topical retinoids work to normalize the life cycle of the pilosebaceous unit (follicle and sebaceous glands). Some other topical products that may be prescribed include sulfur, zinc, and resorcinol.

Oral medications can also be prescribed for acne. They are either antibiotic or retinoid in nature. Because they are ingested, the side effects of oral medications are usually more marked. They can affect birth control pills and make the skin more sun sensitive.

Other possible treatments may include phototherapy, where a light absent of harmful UV rays is shone on the skin to clear up conditions; hormonal treatments, since sebum (oil) production in glands is usually triggered by hormonal changes; and cryotherapy, where liquid nitrogen is used to freeze and break up pimple lesions.

Clean out the medicine cabinet

Prescription stomach pills could be hurting you

This year the Federal Drug Administration (FDA) asked major drug manufacturer Novartis to voluntarily pull their popular prescription medication Zelnorm from pharmacy shelves. Zelnorm, used to treat irritable bowel syndrome (IBS), constipation and other digestive disorders, may cause a risk of cardiovascular side effects, including an increased risk of heart attack or stroke. This medication joins a long line of prescription drugs that were taken off the market due to side effects that were more harmful to the patient than the remedy.

In the wake of these recent findings, the public should sort through their medicine cabinets, cleaning out anything that is expired and potentially tossing prescription drugs that could be doing more harm than good.

More than a Stomach Ache

Digestive problems account for millions of doctor visits each year. But prescription medication needn't be the first course of treatment for relief. Many doctors treat the symptoms of digestive problems rather than the causes themselves. Therefore, prescription medication that either suppresses acid production or gas in the stomach and intestines is often the first line of defense. However, boosting the natural enzymes in the digestive system can be a better course of action.

Nu-Zymes™ is a dietary supplement that is taken before, after or between meals. Each all-natural capsule is fortified with a unique blend of maylase, protease, lactase, lipase, cellu-lase, acidophilus and Cere-Calase™ - a special blend of three enzymes. These plant- and fungi-derived enzymes perform specific functions to help the digestive system work properly by breaking down fats, proteins, sugars and other nutrients into smaller particles for ease of digestion.

"My 13-year-old son was diagnosed with irritable bowel syndrome when he was 5 years old," says Cynthia H. of Alto, Texas. "I have searched for something to help him for years and finally gave up until I watched a program on Nu-Zymes. I ordered them and my son could tell a difference immediately. My whole family takes them now."

This summer she has painted "en Plein air" with her art group "The Warwick Painters" scenes of Stoneham, Melrose, Wakefield, Rockport and Gloucester. They recently hosted an exhibit at the Beebe Estate in Melrose depicting New England scenes. Many of these paintings will be exhibited at the library the month of October, along with watercolors of Italian landscapes and city scenes.

Mrs. Corbett is an active member of the Reading Art Association, Woburn Guild of Artists, Lynnfield Art Guild, Concord Art Association, Lexington Arts and Crafts Society, and an associate member of the Rockport Art Association, and the North Shore Art Association, where she has been awarded many awards. FLINT LIBRARY HOSTS SPEAKER

Valerie Martin, author of the forthcoming novel, Trespass, will speak at the Flint Memorial Library, 147 Park Street, North Reading on Friday, September 21 at 7 p.m.

Valerie Martin is the author of three collections of short fiction and seven novels, including Italian Fever, The Great Divorce and Mary Reilly, the Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde story told from the viewpoint of the housemaid, which was filmed with Julia Roberts and John Malkovich.

Her novel, Property, won the 2003 Orange Prize. She is also the author of a non-fiction work about St. Francis of Assisi, Salvation, Scenes from the Life of St. Francis.

Her new book, Trespass, set in New York, Louisiana and Croatia has been called "A major novel," by Library Journal. Kirkus Reviews declares it "a brilliant must-read from Martin who captures the zeitgeist of contemporary America within a deeply personal context." Booklist says "Martin is a coolly dispassionate storyteller with a narrative voice that is at once inviting and disquieting."

ORCHID SALE AT LYMAN ESTATE

The Lyman Estate greenhouses will have hundreds of greenhouse grown, healthy orchid plants on sale on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 19, 20 and 21 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Come enjoy the antique greenhouses, built by wealthy Boston merchant Theodore Lyman. Inhale the wonderful scents of the wide variety of orchids on display and for sale. There will be both hard-to-find varieties and easily grown varieties. The selection can not be beat.

Fascination with orchids began in the early 1800s in the United States. Plant breeders continue to hybridize more and more plants, their culture has become less demanding. No longer is a greenhouse required, most species can be grown in a variety of home conditions.

The Lyman Estate Greenhouses are located at 185 Lyman Street in Waltham. To reach the Estate take Route 128 to exit 27A, Totten Pond Road, follow Totten Pond Road to the end and turn right onto Lexington Street, take a left onto Beaver Street and continue to the Estate at the rotary.

Movies from S-2

she has devoted her life to earning the money to educate Annie.

Despondent about a failed job interview, Annie takes a job as a Nanny after meeting Grayer X in the park. Mrs. X (Laura Linney) sees them together and offers her the job.

The first hour of this is terminal movie-watching. It is such a formula. Guess what, Annie meets a hot guy, Harvard hottie (Chris Evans) and a stifled romance ensues, which raises another of the movie's conceits, the fact that Evans' character couldn't have a real name. Maybe this is the kind of stuff chicks find cute and appealing.

Guess what, Mr. X (Paul Giamatti) is having an affair. Make that several affairs. He's an unlikely jerk. But, then, so is Mrs. X, even though she's faced with a loveless marriage and a faithless husband. With a little thought and a little more work, this could have been a commentary on self-indulgent parents, but it ends up being formulaic and the characters are superficial.

THIS MAGNIFICENT HOME in one of the finest parts of Reading offers beauty, taste and location. After finishing dinner in your fireplaced dining room, retire out to your private deck for dessert or a cocktail.

Most discriminating address

Rustic elegance is probably the best way to describe this custom Colonial home nestled on a beautifully treed acre plus lot. This magnificent home is truly one-of-a-kind. Enter through the custom designed front door and fall in love with the feel of a Re-lais & Chateaux country inn. This four bedroom, three and a half bath, colonial offers an aristocratic interior. It showcases handcrafted walls, soaring ceilings in the formal dining room that boasts a fireplace, six foot tall leaded glass china closet and custom wood beam ceilings that you will find not only in this room but throughout the entire home.

A first floor master bedroom offers a private full bath, walk-in closet and a Jacuzzi. This room also has a fireplace for wintertime enjoyment.

One would marvel at the eat-in kitchen with unique features such as a wood stove, hand painted tiles and gorgeous French doors that lead to a private deck. This room would please even the most discriminating chef.

From either the foyer or the relaxing screened porch you can access the large yet comfortable family room that boasts an oversized fireplace, built in cabinets & bookcases, and warm wood floors.

Arguably, one of the most favorite rooms in this home is the formal living room. This room is spacious, has a vaulted wood ceiling, a floor-to-ceiling fireplace and a loft with custom bookcases. Through the leaded glass windows you can view the very private back yard.

Only in an extraordinary home would one find a custom designed bridge built from the timber ties of an actual railroad bridge! This bridge on the second floor connects two oversized bedrooms with custom closets and wood beamed ceilings. Located conveniently off of the
